

Soviets Back Suez Seizure

Ike Orders Dulles To Crisis Parleys

LONDON (AP)—Russia upheld Egypt today in her seizure of the Suez Canal and implicitly warned the West against reprisals.

The statement came from Nikita S. Khrushchev, Communist party boss, as President Eisenhower was dispatching State Secretary Dulles to London to help map Western strategy.

Khrushchev, in a speech at Moscow, said Egypt was entitled to take over the waterway. He warned against what he called "unwise voices in Britain and France asking for the application of reprisals, "even if through the canal."

Nasser Will Keep Pacts

In Cairo today, President Gamal Abdel Nasser declared freedom of navigation in the canal will be guaranteed.

"Both the Convention of 1888 which provides the canal would remain open to all nations, in war and in peace and assurances concerning it in the Anglo-Egyptian agreement of 1954 are and will be fully maintained," the Egyptian leader said.

In London talks to date the United States has been represented by Deputy Undersecretary of State Robert Murphy, British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau are the other conferees. Dulles will join them Wednesday.

He expressed confidence their statesmen, with "common sense, experience and political soberness," would view the seizure properly.

Diplomatic leaders of the United States, Britain and France—soon to be joined by Dulles—are working here on the idea of an international control body to guarantee continued free movement of ships through the canal.

Military affairs dotted developments of the day:

1. Britain ordered her troops carrying soldiers and their families to and from the Far East to steer clear of the Suez Canal, and "make the long trip around the Cape of Good Hope. Three such ships are now inbound to Britain and one outbound. It appeared clear the aim of the order was to avoid possible trouble with the Egyptians."

2. It developed that two British destroyers sold to Egypt are going to be permitted to sail from Portsmouth despite Prime Minister Eden's announcement Monday of a ban on the shipment of British arms to Egypt. The foreign office said Egypt has already paid for the destroyers and they will head out tonight.

RECALL EN CREWS

3. Some Royal Navy warship crews on leave in English ports were reported recalled in case a show of force is ordered. The Admiralty declined confirmation. A spokesman said only "certain naval moves are being ordered."

The Western Big Three are expected to condemn Egypt's seizure of the canal.

Informed sources said today's meeting of the British and French foreign ministers and United States state department officials would complete plans for calling the world's leading shipping nations to a conference.

Such a meeting would discuss a new international authority to run the 100-mile canal instead of the Egyptian state company which took over last week.

One major problem was whether Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser would go along with such a proposal. Another was what part the Russians would demand in any control group.

Western experts continued to thumb their lawbooks, but so far could come up with no grounds for a legal challenge of the nationalization decree. Nasser said he would pay off the stockholders in the canal company at the market rate on Thursday. The British government is the biggest holder, with 44 per cent of the shares.

BOGUS NAVY SURGEON

Demara Committed For Observation

BOSTON (AP)—Police said a man they identified as Ferdinand W. Demara, 34, of Lawrence, an impostor surgeon who once performed a series of successful operations on the Korean battlefield, was committed Monday to the Boston state hospital for 10 days observation.

Lieut. Francis J. Gannon said Demara was picked up in a hotel acting in a "confused manner." Demara told police he was awaiting several motion picture representatives who planned to film his life story.

After gaining considerable attention for performing successful major surgery on South Koreans, Demara was discharged from the Royal Canadian Navy in Esquimalt, and was held in custody by immigration authorities in Victoria pending his subsequent deportation from Canada.

Canadian authorities said Demara enlisted as Dr. Joseph Cyr of New Brunswick. The deception was revealed when the real Dr. Cyr reported his medical papers had disappeared.

As much may not be said of the smugglers.

The officer reported he spotted a suspicious car parked on a lonely road outside Huntingdon, B.C., a quarter of a mile from the United States border.

Ordering it to move on, the officer parked his cruiser, of similar make and model, in its place and went for a look around. He came back to find the two suspects, laden with 31 bottles of U.S. beer which they had carried nearly a mile through thick woods.

SEEKS RECORD

Shooting for Marilyn Bell's Lake Ontario record today is 21-year-old Shirley Campbell of Toronto, coached by Bert Crockett of Victoria. Under ideal weather conditions, she waded into the water at 10:55 p.m. PDT, Monday, and at 11:15 a.m. had covered about two-thirds of the 32-mile swim. If she can complete it by 7:30 p.m., she will have beaten the time set by Marilyn in her successful swim two years ago. Shirley is swimming for $5,000 from her sponsor, The Toronto Star, and a diamond ring.

Ottawa Lottery Ceiling May Kill Giant Bingo

New Gambling Rules Before Commons

An end to giant bingo games, which have attracted 23,000 players in Victoria in recent months, appeared possible today as a joint Senate-Commons committee recommended a virtual prohibition of lotteries.

The committee, which has been studying the controversial lottery question for two years, defined bingo as a lottery and recommended a ceiling on bingo prizes of $5,000 in any one year by one organization.

The final report of the committee filed today, recommended laws against all lottery activity including prohibition of the distribution of foreign lottery tickets with three specific exemptions.

1. Lotteries licensed by authorities in aid of charitable, religious and community purposes with the value of prizes not to exceed $5,000 in any one year; no money to be paid to promoters and a proper audit to be made of operations.

2. Raffles of goods only for non-commercial purposes not to exceed $50 in total value.

3. Prizes permitted up to a total of $10,000 in one year in connection with the sale of admission tickets to agricultural fairs.

The committee recommended new laws from which all loopholes and ambiguities would be removed and the application of new and present laws against lotteries could be enforced.

It interpreted the game of bingo as being a lottery and its proposed restrictions would apply to bingo.

On bingo the report said: "The committee has already noted that at least one important judicial decision has held that bingo is a game of chance and falls under the gaming section of the Criminal Code. "Other decisions have held that bingo is a lottery. The committee considers that in its essence bingo is more accurately described as a lottery in which prizes are distributed by means of chance rather than as a game in which players pit their skill and luck against each other."

"In addition, it appeared to the committee that in practice nothing concrete yet," said Mr. Philion.

Bingo is illegal under present laws, but charitable commitments by the Kinsmen of money realized from bingo "is the basis on which the Kinsmen were not prosecuted here," said a spokesman for the provincial attorney-general's department.

"It's a wonderful way to raise money," said Mr. Philion, who would make no other comment on possible curtailing of operations.

The victory gave England a 2-1 lead, with one match drawn, in the best-of-five series.

Laker took all 10 wickets for 53 runs in Australia's second innings, the first player to do so in test cricket.

He finished with 19 wickets for 30 runs.

Final scores: England 459, Australia 84 and 205.

England retained the Ashes on the basis that the worst she can do now is to end up with a tie if the Aussies win the fifth and final match. As the defending champion, the English side keeps the Ashes in the event of a deadlock.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

ALMIGHTY GOD, our heavenly Father, who has created us to be Thine own, make us alert to Thy presence in every experience of this day. As we go about our work, press in upon us; meet us in our brother's need; purge our selfish wills. May we seek Thee even as Thou dost always seek us; in Jesus' name. Amen.

Red Chinese Withdrawal Demanded

BORDER SEIZURE WORRIES BURMA

RANGOON, Burma (AP)—Several hundred Red Chinese troops were reported today to have invaded Burma's mountainous northern frontier.

The Burmese government said tonight it was "seriously concerned" over developments in the area.

A statement from the Burmese foreign office said some of the Chinese troops had established outposts in Wa State in northeast Burma close to the border.

The reports received here said the Communist Chinese had crossed the frontier along a 500-mile arc and advanced up to 60 miles into Burmese territory.

"The Burmese government is in close touch with developments in the border region," the government statement said.

PEIPING CONTACTED

The statement said that the Burmese government had brought the matter to the attention of Peiping and "negotiations are in progress with a view to withdrawal of the Chinese troops to the Chinese side of the border."

NEW INFORMATION on actions of ships before collision that sank Italian luxury liner Andrea Doria is basis for reconstruction by Times' artist of sea tragedy off New York. At left is what could have happened had ships followed rule of the sea—"Green to green, red to red; perfect safety, go ahead." But, according to Italian Line spokesman, "Doria veered left and the Stockholm didn't pay any attention," as depicted at right.

SHIP TOLL FEARED 54

Missing 26 Were Near Impact Point

(AP and UP Dispatches)

NEW YORK — The Italian Line said today 26 of the still "unaccounted for" persons aboard the sunken liner Andrea Doria were berthed near the point where the Swedish liner Stockholm smashed into the giant ship.

This disclosure led to fears that the death total for the crash might go to 54 persons.

Currently the Italian Line lists two known dead, 18 presumed dead and 29 unaccounted for.

The Swedish Line counts two dead and three missing and presumed dead.

The master of the luxurious Andrea Doria disclosed that he followed the progress of the approaching Stockholm on his radar screen before the collision last Wednesday.

Survivors said the Europe-bound Stockholm was moving from a direction of six o'clock and the Andrea Doria was approaching from a direction of 10 o'clock. If both vessels veered to the starboard they would have passed port to port.

The bow of the Stockholm ripped into the starboard side of the Doria, indicating that the Italian vessel had cut directly across its path.

TINY VICTIM BURIED

Gigante said the Andrea Doria turned left in an apparent effort to "get away."

Funeral services for the youngest victim of the collision were to be held today.

A Mass of the Angels will be sung for Norma di Sandro, 4, of Milan, Italy, in Providence, R.I.

Norma, "the sleeping princess of the Andrea Doria," died Friday night in hospital. She had been unconscious for 40 hours.

The first of a flood of expected damage suits was filed Monday by Nancy Leo, 33, an Andrea Doria passenger, who suffered a broken leg and other injuries.

Miss Leo asked $200,000 for her injuries.

A U.S. House of Representatives merchant marine subcommittee, headed by Rep. Herbert C. Bonner (D-N.C.), comes to New York Wednesday to launch an investigation into the disaster.

Bonner said the committee would not try to determine who was to blame in the collision.

Stassen Given Political Leave By Eisenhower

Action Believed Compromise Move

WASHINGTON (UP)—Some of President Eisenhower's close White House associates hoped and believed today that disarmament counsellor Harold E. Stassen has left the administration team for good.

Assistant press secretary Murray Snyder announced at Gettysburg Monday that President Eisenhower had given Stassen four weeks' leave without pay to conduct political activity. Stassen requested the leave.

The announcement came one week after Stassen called on vice-President Richard M. Nixon to withdraw his candidacy for renomination. Stassen also summoned Mr. Eisenhower to consider Nixon's impact on the voters and to reconsider his willingness to run with him again.

He has been banging those drums daily since July 23. The Republican party has been in a rolling boil. Announcement of the leave came a few hours after a 20-minute conference with the president which had been sought by Stassen.

"Was your leave a gentle firing?" Stassen was asked. "Oh no, the other way 'round," he replied.

Stassen said he was not now actually outside the official Eisenhower family, but merely would not be drawing a government salary until Aug. 27, four days after the Republican national convention is scheduled to end.

Mr. Eisenhower's grant of leave to Stassen appeared to be a compromise action. Some administration intimates, among them Attorney-General Herbert Brownell Jr. are understood to have urged Stassen's public execution on the White House lawn. Others argued against direct action, but conceded the need for disassociating the cabinet circle with an active campaign against Nixon.

Tops In Teens

A summertime feature, Tops in Teens, will seek to focus the spotlight on various and district teenagers who are representative of the great majority of our fine young people.

Library Page Has Busy Life

Sixteen-year-old Frank Bridges was hired as a page at the library, but he's really a full chapter.

The teen-age chapter in the book of his life is crisscrossed with interests and activity both in school and out. In school (he's now in grade 12, Oak Bay High) he managed so well he was promoted by recommendation, although he has worked part time since January.

Frank has also found time in the past to play the sousaphone, make model aircraft into which he installs gasoline engines, and study electronics. He plans to make his own radio, then extend his ambitions to construction of a radio-controlled plane. Needless to say, Frank wants to be an electrical engineer.

Any time Frank has left from his library duties he spends caddying or "trying" to play golf.

His job at the library is in the reference section where he files new and old magazines and locates others for the inquiring public.

He has a liking for the library but at first had difficulty keeping his voice down and was always being shushed.

At home, 3701 Palo Alto, Frank does the shushing, being big brother to Jim, 13; Sharon, 10; and Rikki, 12.

What would a teen age choose for his own leisure reading when he works as a library page and is surrounded by the world's finest literature?

"Sheepishly, he replied, 'science fiction'."

Friday's Child, which also won the Governor-General's Prize for poetry in Canada, shared the honors for the best collection of original English verse published during the last three years with works by British poet J. P. Fletcher.

Although reared in Canada, Watson was born in England.

At 15, he emigrated with his parents to Vancouver Island and lived there for the next 10 years.

He has been teaching at the University of Alberta since 1951 and it was during this time that he wrote his prize-winning verse.

Accident made her victim of Rheumatic pain

No matter how long you have been handicapped by the misery of rheumatic pain, you may get the relief for which you longed. Take the case of Mrs. Minnie M. McIntee, 131 South Vickers St., Fort William, Ont.: "For long enough I suffered from rheumatic pain in my hip, arm and hand, a result of being knocked down on the street by a falling sign. Sometimes the pain was extremely sharp, and my joints were stiff, sore and swollen. I did not find the medicine I needed—until my son used Templeton's T-R-C's for rheumatic pain. So I tried them too. It was a blessing I did, for at last I enjoyed the relief for which I longed. Now I'm up and active all day, thanks to Templeton's T-R-C's! Let T-R-C's help you—only 79c and $1.50 at drug counters."

Conciliation Chairman Named

Philip Fleming was named Monday as chairman of a conciliation board to act in a dispute between Victoria Automotive Maintenance Workers' Union and nine Victoria garage operators, but the union previously formed a strike committee anyway.

About 250 employees ask 31 1/2 cents an hour increase on the present journeyman mechanic rate of $1.78 1/2, plus a four-hour reduction in the work week to 40 hours, effective Oct. 1, with no reduction in weekly guaranteed take-home pay. They seek also nine paid statutory holidays and union shop, with all demands based on a one-year contract.

In Nehru's Back Yard

MR. NEHRU HAS USED HIS tour of the Western world to deliver a series of impeccable sermons on the virtues of peace and disarmament. But in deploring the behaviour of various nations he does not mention his own problems at home. Actually the present condition of India is extremely alarming and no one realizes that better than the prime minister.

In a recent speech at Bombay Mr. Nehru said: "What I cannot tolerate is the meanness and bitterness gripping the nation. Where are we drifting?" This cry of anxiety is very different from Mr. Nehru's confident posture when he visits the West. He has good reason for anxiety.

In Assam rebellious tribesmen have demanded independence from India and created a local emergency strangely like Britain's problem in Cyprus. For six months the Indian Army has been trying to quell this outbreak and Mr. Nehru (speaking like the British Government to the rebels of Cyprus), says there will be "no negotiations with the rebels until terrorism is stamped out."

Unrest is not confined, however, to Assam. The rivalries of various provinces that were once independent states and never in history were truly united in a single nation are straining the paper unity of the new national constitution and the undoubted genius of Mr. Nehru.

In many places the police are clashing with angry rioters. Some fifteen persons were recently killed in an outbreak of violence near Patna. A rebellious Hindu organization in the Punjab is agitating against certain language concessions granted to the Sikhs. The police there subdued a mob bent on attacking the Sikhs with stones and other weapons, one person being killed and 70 wounded.

Railway strikes in another area drove an engine crew from its cab and sent a passenger train crashing into a station in what Mr. Nehru called "a monstrous and criminal action."

While Mr. Nehru was asking in Bombay whether "we are human beings or animals?" his speech was punctuated by police gunfire directed at a riotous crowd. Some 1,400 persons were arrested that day.

A dispatch from India says that the police, irritated beyond endurance, are now firing indiscriminately. An Indian citizen, writing to the press, remarks that "the police under the British Government, which did not make a fetish of non-violence, did not use so many bullets."

Mr. Nehru asks where India is drifting. Mr. Frank Moran, editor of The Times of India, answers: "If political or territorial differences are to be solved by bludgeoning the other side and by setting the ruffians of the alleyways on peaceful citizens, the whole of India will writhe beneath the gangster rule of the mob."

No one but the Communists of Russia and China will take any comfort from these conditions since the stability of India is vital to the Western world. Unfortunately Indian democracy seems to be far too dependent on the leadership of one great man and he, no doubt with the best of motives, is too inclined to preach and moralize to other nations whose affairs are at least as well managed as his own.

Taming the Lightning

WHEN HAIL STRUCK SECTIONS of south central Alberta and destroyed crops last week, the Didsbury area escaped.

In that region farmers have financed an experiment to "seed" clouds scientifically with the objective of causing rain rather than hail.

Results of the experiment at Didsbury were termed inconclusive. As one spokesman put it: "The hail suppressors were operating but it was almost impossible to say if the idea was working. We had no hail but we had conditions which might have been hail."

This is only one area in which man is trying to do something about the weather. On Vancouver Island "rain-makers" employed to damp down forests in times of extreme fire hazard, have come under heavy criticism for causing bad weather.

The "rain-makers," says a pamphlet prepared by leading Island forestry representatives, cannot win rain from a sunny sky. They can only hope to increase its volume when appropriate clouds are present.

The efforts of the agency employed by certain timber interests to increase precipitation takes on particular interest in the light of a major research project now proceeding in the United States.

Under the name "Project Sky-fire" this is a scientific investigation of possible means to rob thunderheads of their lightning in the western states.

That part of the U.S. attributes the source of half its forest fires to lightning. In British Columbia the same cause is listed for about 30 per cent of our fires in the woods. Hence British Columbia is watching the American project closely.

Munitalp, a New York and Schenectady foundation, the United States Forest Service, the U.S. Weather Bureau, National Parks Service, the University of Washington, the California Division of Forestry, Montana State University and many others are participating in the work.

At this stage, researchers are studying cloud formations and air currents, coupled with the occurrence of lightning from the type of cloud which fathers such electrical discharges.

"How long it may be before the observational stage of Project Sky-fire will be succeeded by actual projects to cut thunderstorms down to size by seeding is as yet uncertain," reports Roscoe Fleming in a special Christian Science Monitor feature. But it is only a beginning. Developments include the launching of a similar project in the southwestern United States and one in Canada, the latter at the request of the Canadian Office of Meteorology and the Alberta Research Council.

For British Columbia, the possibilities are impressive. If science can invent a practical means of taking the bolt from the lightning, an effective means may be found to stop nearly a third of the province's fires before they start.

Part of Our Past

IT IS HEARTENING TO LEARN that Mr. Bennett, like previous British Columbia premiers, intends to preserve the old legislative building that stands behind the present Parliament Buildings.

This structure, the last of the historic "birdcages," housed our first governmental assembly and rightly deserves every consideration as a valued relic of our past. Regardless of future plans for malls and the extension of government office buildings, the original wooden home of democracy on this coast must be maintained.

It should, indeed, enjoy a more imaginative fate than its current use as accommodation for a mineral exhibit and government laboratories. Such old buildings are priceless in their wealth of memories. No people with a great future should neglect a great past.

Straining at the Seams

WHEN THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT estimated, last January, that Canada would invest some seven billion dollars in construction of various sorts this year, its figures were commonly considered too optimistic. The Government was suspected by its enemies of painting an exaggerated picture for political purposes.

Now it turns out that the Government erred on the side of caution. In a new set of figures the Dominion Bureau of Statistics says that Canada will invest over $8 billions—provided it can find the necessary money, materials and manpower—or almost 30 per cent more than in 1955.

Most of the money will come from Canadian investors but some from Americans. We shall buy much of the material from the United States but we must supply nearly all the manpower ourselves.

Together this heavy demand for money, materials and manpower produces the pressure known as inflation. Our whole economy is straining at the seams because we are attempting to expand it at a rate probably unprecedented in North American history.

The question is no longer whether the country is growing fast enough but whether we are trying to do too much, too quickly, at the expense of heavy foreign borrowings, a huge deficit in our international trade and possibly a continuing rise in prices as government, industry and the consumer bid for short supplies. In any case, this year seems certain to break all records in the expansion of our economy.

Making the Selling Job Harder

LOOSE ENDS

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

The Law of Prof. Parkinson

PARKINSON'S LAW, as discovered by The London Economist, is not to be confused with Parkinson's Disease. Both the Law and the Disease may be fatal to the afflicted person or society in the end, but the Law takes longer. According to The Economist's discovery, Parkinson's Law can be simply stated in layman's language as follows:

Work in the bureaucracy of government expands to fill all the time available. Putting it in another way, there is no relationship whatever between the work to be done and the size of the staff needed to do it. Or again, if the work of government declines, the staff required to do it will still continue to expand in good times or bad, forever.

The converse of Parkinson's Law is stated more easily understood, viz: The taxpayer will continue to shrink as the bureaucracy expands.

NOW, The Economist's studies were based on British experience, where it was able to prove, with complicated figures, that various obsolete government departments which no longer did any work of importance cost far more, and employed more people, than in the days of their usefulness. Ordinary men may die. The bureaucracy is immortal and is always growing.

My old colleague, Mr. Grant Dexter, who is good with figures, has lately tested Parkinson's Law in Canada and finds that it applies here as surely as in Britain.

For example, the Federal Government employed 47,231 civil servants in 1934. By the peak of the war emergency, in 1945, this total had risen to 138,702. Any ignorant layman, unaware of Parkinson's Law, would suppose that after the demobilization of the war, the civil service would decline rather sharply. But anyone who believes that would believe anything.

BY 1955 the civil service was up to 181,913. Work had been systematically expanded so as to fill all the time available, to employ everybody possible and to bear as heavily as possible on the taxpayer.

Long before The Economist isolated Parkinson's Law, a layman, Mr. A. W. Neill, Member of Parliament for Albert, had hit by sheer inspiration on the truth of government business which he put in these words:

"What is the whole idea of a man when he gets into the public service but to build a bureau around himself? Give a man the job of shovelling snow between the East and West Blocks and then go away and come back in ten years and you will not find him shovelling snow any more.

"He will be the superintendent-general of snow shovelling, with an office of his own and a deputy and an assistant deputy, an accountant and probably a purchasing agent, and we will be mighty lucky if he does not have a publicity agent as well."

THAT was said in 1936, before Parkinson's Law was fully operative in our primitive Canadian society. Today the superintendent of snow shovelling must have an entire government department under him, a research branch and certainly a large corps of publicity agents handing out releases to the newspapers on the necessity of larger grants for snow shovelling. Not a day passes in this office without a white paper blizzard from Ottawa, which must be swept up by the janitors every night at great cost of time and labor.

Parkinson's Law has its benefits, however. It has built such great civil service cities as Ottawa and Victoria. Without government expenditures Ottawa would probably have remained a small lumbering village called Bytown and Victoria might still be a Little Bit of England on the Shores of the Pacific. For what we now have and are we can largely thank Professor Parkinson's monumental discovery.

MOST civil servants, as I have known them, are good and efficient men and women. They are generally hard-working and underpaid, and I have never been able to discover why they select such unsatisfactory work when they could make a living so much more easily in private business.

While individually as thrifty as anybody else, the civil servant collectively has a quality all his own—the quality of expansion. Nothing in nature can be compared to a bureaucracy except an amoeba which perpetually splits into segments, each living and again splitting in turn.

Denying the ordinary human laws of reproduction, a bureaucracy, even if it is all male and celibate, will still multiply without limit, not through any considered plan, not through passion, but automatically, irresistibly and endlessly. It is immune to all physical laws. It obeys only the Law of Professor Parkinson.

AS an admirer of the civil service—and Canada's is one of the best in the world—I have often wondered why it does not approach the Government and, guaranteeing to hold its numbers down, insist on receiving higher pay. This would improve the income of the civil servants and the taxpayer also. But no such sensible arrangement is possible, I suppose, under Parkinson's Law, which no parliament can repeal and no taxpayer escape.

REPORT FROM OTTAWA By VICTOR MACKIE

Craves Activities to the End

AGRICULTURE Minister Gardiner gave the reply expected of him when asked to comment on the reports that he would be offered a senatorial appointment. He said it had never been discussed with him by any person who had authority to discuss it, which, of course, means the Prime Minister. Nevertheless the rumours persist in Ottawa that he will be offered the opportunity to enter the Senate just as Senator Croll was offered the opportunity. Senator Croll denied he was joining the Upper House until a week before the announcement was made.

Consumers

Inflationary pressures are now at work in the Canadian economy but so far they have not forced consumer prices upward to any great extent. The Federal Government is concerned over the evidences of inflation. The pressures are most apparent at the capital expenditures level where the boom program of $8 billion dollars for this year against the Government's financial experts. They shook their collective heads and said "It can't be done." Even the usually silent Bank of Canada was forced to suggest that governments and private industry implement a "stretch-out" of capital investment programs to "avoid a competitive bidding up of prices and costs."

Restrictions

The Government is not contemplating any consumer credit restrictions at this stage. The inflationary pressures have not permeated to any degree to the consumer levels. Until they do the Government is not going to start worrying about the need to curb credit and installment buying through legislative action. With an election in the offing no government wants to be in the position of imposing such restrictions.

Fall Election

Rumours that the Government was seriously considering a fall election this year gained credence when reports sifted back to Ottawa that the electoral machinery was being taken out of storage, dusted off and polished up for the next federal contest. The chief electoral officer, Nelson Castonguay, reassures all those who check with him that it is routine to start preparing for the general election many months ahead of the actual polling date. But the Opposition is suspicious.

Date

Should the Government decide on a fall election it most likely would select October 29 as the polling day. That is the last Monday in October. The first Monday in November is Guy Fawkes day. During the famous pipe line debate opposition members suggested that Guy Fawkes was a "piker" compared to St. Laurent. The Liberals want no invidious comparisons during the campaign and consequently will avoid the day made famous by Mr. Fawkes. The second Monday in November is getting on too late in the winter for a general election.

The Danger of Waffling

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP, From Washington

EGYPTIAN President Gamal Abdel Nasser's seizure of the Suez Canal company is being compared in knowledgeable circles here to the aggression in Korea in 1950, and even to the assassination at Sarajevo in 1915 which sparked the First World War. Nasser's action may not be that serious. But it is serious enough as British Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden's urgent invitation to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles suggests. At any rate, it is worth understanding just what is at stake.

The bulk of the oil which keeps the industry of Britain and Western Europe turning over passes through the Suez Canal. So does Europe's trade with Asia. The speech by Nasser in which he announced the canal seizure was extraordinarily bitter and irrational, filled with an inflated sense of personal power. It reads in many ways like a speech by Adolf Hitler, with strong pro-Communist overtones.

It is such a man, then, who will have a grip on the economic jugular vein of Britain and Europe, if Nasser is allowed to get away with his unilateral action.

American Stake

It is no wonder that some of the British are talking very tough—talking, indeed, in terms which recall the bad old imperialist days of Disraeli and Palmerston, when the canal was born. But it is also well to understand the American stake in the matter.

American Middle Eastern oil also moves through the canal, and will henceforth do so, if Nasser has his way, only by courtesy of the Egyptian strongman. But that is only a small part of the American stake. The biggest part is the British alliance.

British prestige, influence and power have been shrinking steadily. If Egypt successfully defies Great Britain on a matter absolutely vital to British interests, then it is no exaggeration to say that Britain is through, once and for all, as a great power.

The value of the Anglo-American alliance, which remains the heart and soul of Western strength, will then be sharply and disastrously downgraded.

Direct Result

What is more, what has now happened is a very direct result of American, not British, policy. It is no secret that Jefferson Caffery, former American Ambassador in Cairo, had a lot to do with installing the Nasser regime.

Through Caffery, moreover, very heavy pressure was brought to bear on the British to evacuate the Canal Zone. And it was Secretary of State Dulles who took the lead in the Anglo-American decision to withdraw the offer to help finance the Aswan Dam—a decision which led directly to Nasser's act of defiance.

It has been said that Dulles' decision was a triumphant gamble, because Soviet Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov subsequently remarked that the Soviet Union was "not considering" helping to build the dam. The triumph may well be premature. After all, if two people are interested in a piece of property, and one withdraws, the other is very apt to assume an air of indifference.

The Soviet objective has clearly been achieved, and the danger of a Soviet-Egyptian deal which will make the Soviet Union the master of the Middle East must be added to the dangers inherent in Nasser's seizure of the canal.

There are other dangers. The Israeli, for example, count Nasser their most formidable enemy. If Nasser now triumphantly defies the power of Britain and America, they will conclude that Israel is next on his list. The Israeli may then take "preventive action," or could spark a Middle Eastern or even a general war.

In this situation there are three alternative courses of action, all hideously unattractive. One is to waffle—to protest, to denounce, but to do nothing.

Punitive Measures

Another is to bring maximum economic and political pressure on Nasser. Egypt's sterling accounts have already been frozen, and other punitive economic measures can also be taken, like undercutting Egypt in the world cotton market.

But this kind of economic arm-twisting has an unpleasant smell to the world, and it would leave Nasser nowhere to turn but to Moscow, which is precisely what Moscow wants.

A third alternative is to send the British Parachute and Royal Marine detachments on Cyprus to the Canal Zone, and back them up with the American Sixth Fleet. But the Egyptian army, such as it is, would almost surely resist and war would result.

Much of the world would regard the Western powers as the real aggressors. And a small war with Egypt might lead to ultimate horrors.

The British probably will not use force without American backing. This is an election year. Thus the betting is about ten to one on a policy of waffling, and the grumbling acceptance of another major setback for the weakening West. (Cpy. 1956, N.Y. Herald Tribune Inc.)

At Close of Day

Descending sun slips silently from sight—As quietly as he came on stage to play His major role in drama of the day—Now softly falls the curtain for the night.

But in his wake he leaves a roseate light And lure of "golden fleece" to blaze the way He went, and boding clouds of stormy spray

Are waving fiery torches to their height! Here Godlike-blend of power and of grace And votary fulfills his ordinance.

Symbol of life—setting a little space To rise again—the soul's continuance. To set, to rise, to climb with forward face,

Each closing day more near the inheritance. —Neille Scowcroft.

Wood if They Could

DURING a recess in last week's Sloan Commission sessions on forest resources, Dr. C. D. Orchard discussed personal fuel problems with friends.

"I just can't get the wood I want for my stove," he said. "It looks as if I'll have to turn to oil. I've always used wood, partly because I need the exercise of splitting it. Partly, you suspected, because a chief forester has a fairly close interest in forests and their by-products—one of which used to be stove wood."

Wood to burn is at a premium, and not only in the city.

At a country resort well known to local readers I have a friend who is both a practicing and speculative axeman. His graceful prose of wood cutting has been printed from one shore of Canada to the other. If all the trees converted into paper to carry his pieces on sawing and chopping had been reserved for his personal use as fuel, he would never in this lifetime lack a fire. Indeed, had the timber been converted to its proper purpose and stacked as cordwood, he might leave a legacy of the stuff for generations to come.

It should be understood that my friend's chopping and sawing is confined solely to windfalls. To knock down a growing tree is to him—and to a lesser degree to me and a few thousand others—an act of vandalism, a crime against God and man.

SALVAGE

After a winter of heavy blowdown, he is desolated as he cruises his acres and finds great trunks lying quiet in death on the ground. By late spring and early summer he achieves a bitter resignation. The calamity of the harsher season has given him material to cut in the softer days from May to September.

He tells me there has been little blowdown near him in recent months. He is running out of fallen trees to cut and is thinking of importing some so that his spirit may be soothed again by the song of the saw and the chime of the axe. It would be expensive, but it might be worthwhile in maintaining a balance of living—some wood, a great deal of labor and some joy.

Whatever he does, his position illustrates a shortage of wood in the woods for those who consider cutting and consuming trees on their own property a kind of cannibalism.

And Dr. Orchard can't get wood because, presumably, waste from mills is too valuable, what with sales to pulp outfits, generation of on the spot thermal power and manufacture of pre-sto logs.

OVER-SUPPLIED

While this crisis arises, there has never been more available wood on the beaches than there is this year. The sands are covered by logs. They're a nuisance to picnickers and sunbathers. But the old pioneer epic of a man, his crosscut, axe, sledge and wedges on the beach is fading. Occasionally the angry expletives of a chain saw fracture the normal symphony of the waterfront, but not often enough to remove most of the logs.

And when a man actually cuts and splits by hand, that's something of a spectacle. Only the exhibitionist can appreciate the awe and wonder he inspires at a task once so familiar to beach-combers.

Men with fine saws and axes do, of course, have a reasonable objection to cutting beachwood. What ingrained sand does to a good saw is a sort of sacrilege. And when a honed axe bites into the nails some kid has driven into a log in the process of raft-making the axeman turns a shade anti-social.

Apart from wood on the seashore, however—and most people stay well apart from its use as fuel—there is a shortage. Perhaps this marks the end of an era, though some few atavisms, men who persist in cutting their own fuel, will occur.

Their gradual disappearance is saddening. But their loss is not the important sociological feature of the change. When wood is completely abandoned for stove and fireplace a growing boy loses a useful part of his training. Another of the traditional chores is removed when he has no kindling to split and no woodbox to fill. He is deprived of the discipline such work provided for an earlier generation.

Infinitely more important, he is deprived of the woodshed where discipline was an exact and marvellously effective institution of discipline in his father's and grandfather's boyhood.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Afraid of Revolution

LONDON—I received a note from Reginald Stewart asking would I care to drop down to his hotel and have a drink with him. He has been over here conducting a concert at the Festival Hall. Reginald Stewart—now there for me was an echo of the past.

I remembered in my younger days—back in the 1930s—going to Reginald Stewart's prom concerts in Toronto's Varsity Arena. I would take along the girl who was all the world to me at that particular time. We would sit in the arena and watch the tall man with not too much hair and expressive hands conducting Brahms, Beethoven and Tchaikovsky and in the interval we would go outside and stroll in the hot summer evening and then back for more music, with Reginald Stewart winding up very often it seemed by playing on the piano Jesus, Joy of Man's Desiring.

Then afterwards, over the road to a soda fountain so popular then and doubtless still popular, the name of which I can't for the life of me remember.

That was 20 years ago. I never met Reginald Stewart in those days, so it was interesting to be going along to meet for the first time a man who had been such a well-known figure to me all those years ago.

In the lobby of his hotel I recognized him at once, although it was the first time I had seen him any closer than from the less expensive seats at the back of the arena. As we sat down for a drink he explained that the reason he had invited me along was that his father, George Stewart, now in his eighties and well known in Toronto musical circles, is a regular reader of this column and he had been told that he mustn't leave London without having a chat with me.

Don't know what Reginald Stewart got out of the chat but I found it one of the most interesting talks with people in the public eye that I've had in a long time.

Stewart is friendly, unassuming, as interested in what you're saying as what he has to say (a quality not especially common in celebrities), by no means a musical stuffed shirt and amusing in conversation. He told me this was his first London concert since his debut here a quarter of a century ago. (The critics were very friendly and he has been asked to return next year).

Edinburgh-born, he had gone to Toronto at 17 and had started the proms in 1933. With the Baltimore Symphony and Conservatory since leaving Toronto in 1940, he's back to Canada to conduct at the Stratford Festival. Then he is off to Athens, Greece, to conduct.

He is rather afraid that revolution will at once break out there, for his overseas concert dates invariably seem to coincide with revolutions, including Guatemala and Colombia.

EARLY CLOSURE ASKED FOR HAPPYLAND PARK

A petition asking a 10 p.m. closure for Happyland Park at Elk Lake in order to halt "intolerable conditions" was referred by Saanich council to beaches and parks committee Monday.

A nearby resident, S. Richards, acting as spokesman, said night-time noises are particularly unbearable when they keep children awake. In the petition, he said, drinking parties go "far into the night with shouting and singing."

HOME GARDEN

By JACK BEASTALL

Yet Time To Plant Vegetables for Fall

Due to holidays, hot weather, and visiting relatives, work in the garden has been disrupted for the past few weeks.

Since the work scheduled for July has a definite bearing on meals of late fall and next year's display of flowers, it should be completed at once rather than forgotten.

There is still time to sow vegetables if you are willing to gamble against early frosts. Beets, carrots, lettuce, radish, and turnips will give some variation to meals, and you might have luck with an early dwarf variety of peas.

Be sure to set out some plants of kale (borecole) for winter greens. These are quite hardy and the leaves can be picked when snowflakes are falling.

For spring cabbage sow a pinch of seed right away. The variety "Flowers of Spring" is generally considered best in this area.

In the flower garden the digging, dividing, and replanting of both the German bearded iris and the Madonna lily should be done as soon as possible.

A decrease of flowers on either of these plants indicates the need for division, while no flowers at all shows they have been planted too deep.

The iris rhizomes should look like a duck on water, half in and half out of the soil. The tips of the lily bulbs should not be more than two inches below soil level.

Chick's Kicks Boost Tension; Vancouver Penguin Egg Fertile

VANCOUVER (CP)—The tension is mounting around the penguin pool in Stanley Park—Matilda's egg is alive.

Alan Best, curator, placed the egg in a bowl of warm water early today—after the list of the curious bird-watchers had turned in—and make his pronouncement:

"There were three or four kicks, the egg is definitely alive."

There has never been a penguin born in captivity in Canada, few anywhere in the world. Last year Matilda sat for approximately 60 days on an egg which was found infertile.

U.S. Profits 5.5% Above '55 Figures

Only 11 of 448 Firms in the Red

NEW YORK (AP)—United States corporations on the whole continue to make more profits than in the previous years. But weakness in some key industries has pulled the average gains down from the heavy percentages they were reporting some months back.

In the first six months of 1956 net profits after taxes for 448 corporations, the first to report, averaged 5.5 per cent higher than in the first half of 1955. But a year ago the average gains were 34.7 per cent higher than the first six months of 1954.

About three out of four corporations, however, show increases in the earnings they reported in the first half of last year. Eleven companies operated in the red during the first half year. In the previous year 17 did.

The industries which showed lower profits this year include automobiles, auto suppliers, aircraft, glass, breweries, railroads and electric equipment.

MEAT PACKERS PROSPER

Biggest comeback from its own private depression of 1955 was the meat packing group which this year shows a 164.3 per cent gain in profits.

Oil equipment makers spurred ahead by 61.7 per cent, while the oil producers advanced 18.8 per cent to continue their steady gains, year by year, since the end of the war.

The 26 steel and iron companies reporting early show a combined profit increase of 26.3 per cent in the period ending June 30.

Alcoa bounced up four points as Steelco gained 1 1/2 in the steels. International Nickel led 1 1/2 while Aluminum added one point in the base metals. McColl advanced a point to feature a fractionally better refining oil group.

AT LONDON the stock market prices moved erratically to extend their commitments.

The reported crossing of the Burma border by Chinese troops and the Middle East political situation were adverse factors.

Industrials were quiet. Gold shares moved erratically but copper was firm.

Red Feather Aim $22,000; Highest Yet

Campaign Heads to Reach $22,000

A total $22,000 is sought by Victoria Community Chest this year in the largest red feather campaign in local history.

The figure is $10,000 greater than the 1955 objective which was not reached.

The sum of $198,600 was collected in last year's campaign. Chest executive R. M. Moore, said the group "confidently expects to reach this goal."

Campaign heads who will serve under chairman Harry Gladwell include:

H. L. Alexander, campaign vice-chairman of advance donation division; E. A. Cleveland and Don Birnie, chairman and vice-chairman of small firms division; S. C. Smith and Owen Karn, co-chairmen of large firms division; A. W. J. Smith, publicity chairman; Mrs. A. R. Roberts and Mrs. Don Forrest, heads of the residential division.

Muscular Dystrophy Association of Canada and SPCA have been admitted to the group of nearly 20 agencies aided by the chest in Victoria.

Equipment makers spurred ahead by 61.7 per cent, while the oil producers advanced 18.8 per cent to continue their steady gains, year by year, since the end of the war.

SPEEDBOAT DAMPER ASKED AT CADBORO BAY

Saanich council was asked Monday to begin policing Cadboro Bay in order to reduce power-boat speeding.

Letters from Mrs. G. A. Thompson and Miss Una McAnally referred to speedboats which have "for years been a menace as well as an annoyance in Cadboro Bay."

They asked for action similar to that taken by Oak Bay, which says it will police its shore waters as a traffic control.

Council tabled the report for further information.

ACROSS THE PROVINCE

Workers at Kitimat Start Union Voting

KITIMAT (CP)—More than 2,000 workers began balloting Monday to settle a two-year fight between the Allied Aluminum Workers Council at Kitimat and the United Steel Workers of America.

Voting will continue until Thursday to determine which of the two unions will represent the workers.

The contest continued up to the moment voting began Monday morning, with both unions distributing pamphlets in a last-minute bid to win votes.

Only persons employed by Alcan prior to May 14 are eligible to vote.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

WILLIAMS LAKE—Alexander Toma, Beaver Valley mill operator, and Alexander Fred Bennie, mill employee, were committed to trial on reduced charges of manslaughter Monday at their preliminary hearing on charges of murder.

The case involves the death of Elmer Cook following a fight on the Beaver Valley road the night of July 20.

HOMICIDE RULING

VANCOUVER—The death of Mrs. Anna Kogan, 64, was termed by a coroner's jury Monday as homicide at the hands of her husband.

Levi Kogan has been charged with murder in the case and an order-in-council applied for to commit him to the provincial mental hospital.

The jury heard testimony that Kogan had taken to carrying an axe into his bedroom during the last few months because he feared Russians would kidnap him and take him back to the country he fled in 1937.

PAIR MISSING

PRINCE RUPERT—Land and sea search parties combed the area around Galloway rapids and Seal Cove Monday for Leonard Francis Nim, and Brian Ronald Nix of Cow Bay, whose skiff was discovered upside down near Seal Cove air base Saturday.

Police said the pair was last seen July 24. They had borrowed a cabin cruiser and set off towing a 12-foot skiff, equipped with an outboard motor, for a beachcombing expedition to Galloway rapids.

SAVED FROM DROWNING

NELSON—Lakeside Park's girl lifeguards saved 11-year-old Marie Sibilleau from drowning Monday.

Lifeguards Joan Stromstead and Yvonne Tremblay found the girl's body at the bottom of the

GLADIOLUS

I planted 4 doz. gladiolus in a front bed. "Delightfully mixed," was what the man said. In the past I've used a compost & my very best gunk. But in growing these, I've had little luck.

But... THIS year (and I never tell a lie), I've got spikes... nearly 6 ft. high. I don't recall what I put in the ground. But just the right stuff I surely found. I've got 'em staked, & tied with twine. The Deep Purple... the first to shine. The next was cream... & then came a red. I haven't the faintest... of what's ahead. I love each encounter in this fragrant maze. Blooms leashed to a sword, piercing my gaze.

The G.F. drew her scissors all set to fade.

"On Guard," I shouted to the keenest blade. She won the battle... 'twas brief and bleak. Virile he was... BUT A YELLOW STREAK.

HUMBER'S

FURNITURE WAREHOUSE

BUT... if you want to see Gladiolus in all their beauty... have a dish of tea, & see a fashion show as well... then visit Arlow Farm this Wednesday afternoon. Drive out (just past Elk Lake), or get the bus from the B.C. Electric Bldg. on Blanshard at 1:30.

Divorce Detectives Unlikely To Be Granted Perjury Trial

Informed sources say it is unlikely that Attorney-General Robert Bonner will lay perjury charges against two Victoria private detectives who gave evidence in a divorce action in Supreme Court here.

Mr. Bonner has been asked to bring the action by their employers, the National Investigation Agency, so they will have a chance to clear their names of criticism made against them by the judge who rendered the judgment in the case.

Mr. Bonner has declined comment.

Other sources say it is "most unlikely" the attorney-general would bring an action questioning the impartiality of Mr. Justice Harry J. Sullivan, who said in court that the two investigators gave perjured evidence.

"A judge has the right to criticize the evidence of witnesses in court," one source said, "and it is unlikely that his expressions of opinion could be made the basis of a court action."

Mr. Justice Sullivan was crit-

IT'S MY VIEW BY Bill Walker

THE WEEKEND IN REVIEW, or what price pressure? Chuck Bennett, high average bowling star in the city went bidding for $1,000 and a trip to Hawaii and a junket to Mexico last week. . . . Chuck had 11 strikes on the board and all he needed was but one more for a perfect game and the aforementioned booty. . . . But he got a tap on the 12th and had to settle for 299. . . . and a consolation award of $100.

George Young had $10,000 for the asking on Sunday's TV bowling show, but missed the headline in the 12th frame, after 11 strikes, and is 10 Gs poorer as a result.

Nanaimo Timbermen have taken the Intercity Boxla League crown for the second straight year. . . . Now the battle boils between Shamrocks and Fishermen for second place. . . . The Irish have three games with the Pils, two at Vancouver, with the one on the mainland tonight the big one. . . . With Arch Browning and Larry Booth again on the firing line and Gordy Johnston his peerless self in the nets, the odds are even that the Irish can do it—overtake the Pils. The club is fast approaching its Mann Cup form of last year and undoubtedly, barring injuries, will be at its peak in the post-season play-downs. . . .

The Little Leaguers are shooting high and mighty fancy, too. . . . and a credit it is to Ralph Cosier's Babe Ruth all-star squad for taking the provincial crown on the mainland last week. . . . Now Bill Prior's National Little League stars go gunning for B.C. honors this weekend. . . . The class of baseball rates high, and a tip of the hat to John Yankoski of Esquimalt for his great mound performance Saturday. . . . He deserved much better than the 2-1 defeat he suffered. . . .

The Davis Cuppers have come and gone, but did anyone notice the strategy of non-playing captain Bill Talbot of the U.S. teams as he guided his rookies Ron Holmberg and Barry McKay to victory in the doubles. . . . The kids were having their problems when Talbot, wise in the ways of experience, glanced skyward and, noting the position of the sun, suggested to his proteges that they lob the ball to their opponents, Bob Bedard and Don Fontana. . . . Four straight points the Americans immediately won by this manoeuvre and, their confidence regained, ultimate victory was theirs. . . .

Victoria United got a tie against North Shore Alrocs Friday last when a victory would have been more in keeping with the trend of the game. And although the argument still rages whether or not referee George Barnes erred in not stopping the play when he warned Alrocs' goalie Joe Travis for swinging at Ced Robb of United. . . . still it would seem that wiser bench strategy would have given the locals better chance of victory. . . . With some players obviously tiring, and fresh players on the bench, it is confusing as to why substitutions were not made. . . . Casey Stengel of the Yanks has had pretty fair success in shifting his players about to suit the situation.

What a difference a run makes: Vancouver Mounties are still mired deep in the Coast League cellar, but the Mounties would be in much better shape if they hadn't lost 23 games by one run this season. . . . A little known fact is that Queen Elizabeth does not attend at other major sporting events in Britain. . . . Orchids to Dave Emery for his brilliant pitching performance in the Babe Ruth baseball finals at Vancouver: the youngster has a word of promise. . . . and a belated word of thanks to radio station CKDA, and staff, for the wonderful assistance in making the Solarium Derby the success it was. . . .

THE KING OF KING SALMON

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — Peter Ton, 75-year-old Tlingit Indian, has brought home what sportsmen believe is the largest king salmon ever taken on sports tackle. The fish, dressed out at 80 pounds, six ounces.

Ton said the fish's frantic flailing boosed two screws on his reel and he lost use of the reel temporarily. He retrieved one screw from the bottom of his boat, replaced it and landed the fish after half an hour's fight.

The salmon, caught near Angoon, a coastal town, was estimated to weigh between 92 and 94 pounds when caught.

The largest king ever caught by any method was taken near Petersburg, Alaska, in 1939. It weighed 126 pounds, eight ounces.

Tiger Jones Wins

AS FISHERMAN, DOG FAILS MISERABLY

Man's 'Best Friend' No Pal of Doug's Now

This is about a dog who once was a fisherman's best friend. Doug Martin of Victoria was out fishing last week off Coal Bay when he hooked into a big spring that ran, according to Doug, around 20-25 pounds. Doug had his dog, a springer spaniel along with him in his boat and, as the fish was brought closer to the boat thrashing violently, the dog began to get excited.

Finally Doug had the fish right alongside his boat when the springer, throwing caution to the wind, sprang. He leaped on the fish and took a swipe at it with his teeth. His weight, however, ripped the hook from the fish and both dog and salmon disappeared under the waves. A few seconds later, sadly relates Doug, up came the dog, without the fish.

'Name Calling' Hits Olympics

MELBOURNE, Australia (BUP)—The "name calling" in Australia's dispute with high-ranking Olympic officials was expected to erupt in new bitterness on both sides today after charges and counter-charges of "neglect," "discourtesy," and the snubbing of royalty.

Edgar Tanner, secretary of the Australian Olympic Federation, said his nation was well prepared to do an outstanding job as host for the 1956 Olympic Games next December.

Otto Mayer of Switzerland, chancellor of the International Olympic Committee, said previously that was not the case. He accused the Aussies of "confusion, neglect, procrastination, and wretched petty jealousies."

"Australia knows how to conduct Olympic games," Tanner retorted. "We were taking part in them before Mr. Mayer was born. We are proud to be one of four countries with an unbroken record of competition in the games."

Tanner said he could not forget a "discourteous" gesture by Mayer at the 1952 Olympic Games in Helsinki, Finland.

Brundage Defended by Hughes

Meanwhile Avery Brundage has found powerful support from the chairman of the Aussies' Olympic organizing committee.

W. Kent Hughes, the Australian chairman, said Monday that Brundage, American president of the International Olympic Committee, whether or not the Duke of Edinburgh would be allowed to appear in the arena at the Olympic Games.

A new IOC rule was interpreted by several newspapers and officials in Australia to mean that the duke would not be allowed to meet with games officials in the arena at the start of the games but would be relegated to the sidelines.

But Hughes said this was not the correct interpretation.

Rain Biggest Help To Aussie Cricketers

MANCHESTER, Eng. (Reuters)—Australia was still eight wickets from defeat in the fourth cricket test match against England here after Monday's rain-shortened play. With only one day to go, the Aussies may yet be saved by the weather.

Play was cut to a total of 65 minutes Monday, first by a sudden pitch and then by recurring rain. In that time, Australia's third wicket pair, Colin McDonald and Ian Craig, added 25 runs without being parted.

Australia was still 291 runs behind when rain brought play to a premature close. The scorecard reads: England 459, Australia 84 and 84 for 2. Each side has won one match in the best-of-five series.

It is 51 years since an England-Australia test at Manchester has been brought to a decision.

End Foychuk's Winning Streak

Arrows 6, Gorge 2

Arrow Furniture, currently trailing Gorge Hotel by 13 games, continued to make things rough for the Senior A Men's Softball League leaders at Central Park Monday night.

Furnituremen, not at all worried by the competition, stopped Gorge Hotel for the fourth straight time and also snapped Ed Foychuk's winning streak at 10 games as they downed the Hotelmen, 6-2.

And it was Don Lyon, a rookie southpaw with only one previous victory to his credit, who did the trick.

Lyon gave up only three hits, struck out seven, and retired 25 of the last 27 batters to face him.

Only one runner reached first base after the third inning, on one of the two walks Lyon issued.

Foychuk, having an off night, was not helped by the four errors which his teammates committed.

Line score follows.

Gorge Hotel	200 000 000—2 3 4
Arrow Furniture	000 240 000—6 1 1
Ed Foychuk and Lee Wilson	Don Lyon and Whitley Turner.

Reds Keep Pace With Milwaukee

By The Associated Press

Joe Adcock rocks Brooklyn with his home runs and Bob Buhl rolls 'em with his fast stuff, but it's Hank Aaron, Milwaukee's bad-ball hitter, who really gives the Dodgers fits.

"Aaron doesn't come into a ball park looking for bases on balls," said Brooklyn right-hander Carl Erskine. "He'll swing at anything he thinks he can hit. A pitcher gets no where going outside the range of his bat."

Aaron is batting .417 against Brooklyn and leading the National League at .342. Monday night he smacked three hits in five trips, driving in four runs including the clincher with his 16th homer—as the first-place Braves socked the Dodgers 8-6 in the opener of a crucial four-game set.

The third-place Brooks now are five games behind the Braves, who are 2 1/2 games ahead of Cincinnati, a 4-2 winner at Pittsburgh.

In the only other National League action, Philadelphia Phillies jumped past Pittsburgh into fifth place by beating Chicago Cubs 5-4 and 4-2 in a twin bill.

MICKEY POWERS FAIR

In the American, Mickey Mantle socked his 33rd and 34th home runs, one his first grand slammer of the year, and drove in six runs as New York Yankees again claimed a 10-game lead with a 13-6 decision over runner-up Cleveland. Detroit beat Boston 11-4. Frank Sullivan 4-1 on Virgil Trucks' three-hitter. Bob Nieman's 10th inning homer beat Kansas City for Baltimore 4-3. Chicago and Washington were not scheduled.

Aaron knocked his homer with a man on in the seventh. Buhl won his 14th and sixth in a row over the Dodgers but needed help from Ernie Johnson, who gave up a two-run homer to Pee Wee Reese in the ninth.

Ed Mathews and Adcock also homered to help send Roger Craig to his first Ebbets Field defeat after winning 10 straight. Adcock's 23rd home run of the season was also his ninth against the Dodgers, and with him within reach of the league record of 13 against one club Hank Sauer vs. Pittsburgh, 1954 in one season.

The Redlegs swept their five-game series at Pittsburgh on Gus Bell's third inning double. Harvey Haddix didn't walk a man and gained the league strikeout lead with 116 by finishing eight in his four-hit nightcap job for the Phils.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Irving Gibson, aged 12, of Allston, Mass., for his question:

Who Started Putting Food in Cans?

Rows of neat cans with clear labels wait on the modern pantry shelf. They hold the best food in the world. It is properly ripened, fresh, clean and cooked to perfection. The miracle grew from a single idea and was perfected by many inventors and scientists over a period of 150 years.

The idea of preserving food in cans was born in France. Napoleon's armies were stomping over The Netherlands. There were bread riots in Paris. France was still in revolution and her enemies were nibbling at her borders. Out of this desperate situation in 1795 came an idea which was to ease the world-wide food situation.

The French government offered a prize of 12,000 francs to anyone with a practical idea for preserving food. In Paris was a baker of fancy sweets named Francois Appert. To win the prize, he turned his art to preserving meats. He worked by trial and error. He found that meat would not spoil when cooked and sealed in glass bottles. Francois was awarded the prize in 1809. He had invented the basic method still used in canning foods.

Appert went on by trial and error to preserve other foods. A book of his recipes was published for household use. But he never learned why food stayed fresh when cooked and sealed in containers. Louis Pasteur gave the first clues 50 years later. We now know that food decay is caused by tiny germs. Some are present on all food. Others float in the air. Appert's cooking killed most of the germs already present. His sealed containers kept new ones from setting up house-keeping in the food.

Naturally other countries wanted to know more about saving food from waste. Other foods were added to the Appert's list and his methods were improved. Peter Durand of London invented the first practical tin cans. The lid was set on with a hole in the middle. The hole was later sealed with solder. In 1856, Gail Borden of America added condensed milk to the growing list of canned goods.

At that time, the cans were cooked in boiling water. In 1816 Isaac Solomon of Baltimore added calcium chloride to the water and speeded up cooking time by hours. This whole plan was outmoded 13 years later. A. K. Shriver, also of Baltimore, showed how the cooking could be done better and faster in vats of steam.

It was the scientists who perfected the quality of canned goods. They worked out exact temperatures and cooking time. They showed how to keep the vitamins and full goodness inside the cans. This work started in 1895 when two scientists at Boston's MIT showed why a batch of canned corn had gone bad. Then the U.S. department of agriculture encouraged further research through other universities.

A new tin can was invented. The lid crimped on whole, in one operation. Canneries started close to fields and orchards to get the freshest food. They were built near the sea to meet the fresh catch from the fishing boats. Canning skills and know-how were gathered bit by bit. They still being added to make those neat, water-saving cans of food in the pantry even more perfect.

Andy sends a Hammond's Ambassador World Atlas to Elaine Di Mora, age 11, of Rochester, N.Y., for her question: How wide is the Gulf of Mexico?

The Gulf of Mexico takes a big bite out of the United States and Mexico. Its beautiful, blue-green waters cover a total area of 600,000 square miles. From north to south it measures 800 miles—which makes it 800 miles long. From east to west it measures 1,100 miles—which makes the Gulf of Mexico 1,100 miles wide.

Where the Gulf meets the Atlantic, between the tip of Florida and Yucatan, it is only 450 miles across. The island of Cuba noses over a line drawn between these two points. Here is where ships leave the Gulf for the Atlantic. They can go through the Straits of Florida or the Straits of Yucatan.

Liberal MLA Urges Release Of RCMP's Sommers Report

VANCOUVER (CP)—Liberal MLA Bruce Brown of Prince Rupert demanded Monday night that the RCMP report on a former B.C. cabinet minister be made public before an election is called. He also questioned the need of a fall election.

Mr. Brown, speaking on a CBC provincial network, referred to former lands and forests minister, R. E. Sommers, accused by Vancouver lawyer David Sturdy of accepting bribes for granting forest management licences. The accusation was made before the Sloan forestry commission, and Mr. Sommers has since brought suit for slander.

Mr. Brown said Attorney General Robert Bonner referred his former cabinet colleague to the RCMP last February and a five-month investigation was conducted.

"Either the minister of lands and forests had misadvised himself as a minister of the Crown or the person making allegations of such misconduct was guilty of perjury," Mr. Brown said.

He added that the press said "some days ago" that the RCMP report would be filed with the attorney-general the following week and that such time has passed.

ELECTION UNNECESSARY
"We of the Liberal group challenge the premier of this province to make public the contents of this report, or at least the recommendations contained in it," said Mr. Brown. He said the report should be made public before an election date is set "so the voters may be in a position to judge for themselves."

Mr. Brown suggested a fall election is unnecessary and might be "for political expediency only." It would be the fourth general election in seven years, and an "unwarranted expense," he said.

"Could it be that the passing of time will lead to embarrassment as to the Sommers affair, the Cassiar-Stewart road fiasco, and the financial policies pursued by Mr. Bennett, particularly the huge borrowings made by the government over the last three years?"

Mr. Brown said the B.C. power commission should secure a "large block of cheap power" from the $250,000,000 Mica Creek dam which the B.C. Electric Co. proposes to build on the Columbia River.

Though he did not mention B.C. Electric by name, Mr. Brown said the publicly-owned power commission must be provided with power "to prevent it from being overwhelmed and destroyed by what could eventually prove to be a single monster power monopoly in B.C."

VANCOUVER (CP)—Counsel for lawyer David A. Sturdy Monday applied for an order to compel former lands and forests minister R. E. Sommers to reply to Mr. Sturdy's statement of defence against a slander suit brought by the ex-cabinet minister.

Ordinarily, delivery of such pleadings is not permissible during the court's July-August vacation, but counsel W. J. Trainor contended that the court may order the reply made.

The case arose out of remarks made by Mr. Sturdy before the Sloan forestry commission in Vancouver last December.

Supreme Court Justice A. M. Manson adjourned the hearing until Tuesday.

"What is the objection to delivering pleadings during vacation?" asked His Lordship. "If I had my way I would abolish vacations."

2 To Face Trial In Bank Holdup

BURNABY, B.C. (CP)—Magistrate C. C. Bell Monday committed Stanley Kempster, 21, and Mrs. Mary Lloyd, 29, for trial on a charge that they robbed a Bank of Montreal branch here of $5,172 April 19. He refused to reduce bail of $15,000 each.

The pair will be tried by jury at the Fall Assizes. They are accused of robbing the bank in company with Mrs. Lloyd's late husband, whose bullet-riddled body was found on the outskirts of Edmonton June 25.

Defence counsel Wallace Craig pleaded unsuccessfully for a reduction in the woman's bail to $4,000 and in Kempster's to $10,000.

Only two witnesses testified during the final day of the preliminary hearing.

Mr. Craig questioned Staff Sgt. J. C. Macdonald at length concerning which of his men took statements from witnesses at the time of the bank robbery, whereupon Mr. Stirling protested and said such statements were "available to my learned friend at any time."

Magistrate Bell then said Mr. Craig's line of questioning was "silly." Mr. Craig asked that the word "silly" be struck from the record.

Louise Ritchie, stenographer for the real estate firm which acted as agent in the sale, May 30 to the accused of a house at 731 Schoolhouse Road contradicted evidence given earlier by contractor Norman Jepson, owner of the house, who said "about $25 or $30 in quarters" made up part of the down payment made by the couple.

North Cowichan Former Reeve Dies Suddenly

CHEMAMUS — A. E. "Bert" Beasley, reeve of North Cowichan municipality from 1950 to 1953, died suddenly at his home here Monday at 9 p.m. on returning from a fishing trip.

Born in Prince Albert, Sask., 48 years ago, he came to Chemamus in 1928, and went to work in the local sawmill. In 1944 he left the mill to take over the building supply firm of Clarke & Son, which he operated to the time of his death.

Prior to serving as reeve, Mr. Beasley spent three years as a municipal councillor. At the time of his death, he was a trustee of Ladysmith School District 67 and president of Chemamus Chamber of Commerce.

Surviving are his widow; a daughter, Diane, 15, and a son, Kenneth, nine. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

BRITISH WAY BEST?

U.S. Visitor Likes Canadian Systems

An American visitor who knows more about Canada than many Canadians said today he believes the British system of government is generally better than that of the United States.

"I think we made a mistake in discarding the British parliamentary pattern when we became the United States," declared breezy, good-humored Dr. F. Burke Sheeran, now visiting Victoria from his home at Benicia, 35 miles east of San Francisco.

Dr. Sheeran didn't need to be told that there is no House of Lords at the legislative buildings, or that British Columbia has had a Social Credit government since 1952.

KNOWS HIS POLITICS

Nor did he need to be told that Social Credit is not the same as Socialism, for Dr. Sheeran has studied both the Social Credit governments of British Columbia and Alberta and is able to discuss the political history of every province in Canada.

He has made a close study of Canada's relationship to Britain

Nanaimo Leases 590-Acre Park

Westwood Lake Acquired From Power Commission for Nominal $1 a Year

NANAIMO—City of Nanaimo will add a 590-acre picnic-resort area to its growing parklands when plans to lease Westwood Lake from B.C. Power Commission are completed.

The Power Commission's offer to lease the area to the city for 10 years for a token payment of one dollar per year and assumption of provincial taxes of $223.70 was readily accepted by Mayor Earle Westwood and council Monday night.

Ald. Grant Williams said "at last the price is down to a financial level we can discuss. For years we have been quoted $15,000 and $20,000 but the price now, namely one dollar, is more like it."

Alderman Mrs. A. B. Hall complimented Mayor Westwood on his work in connection with bringing the park area details to a head.

The property lies within four miles of the city centre and comprises 160 acres in lake waters and 430 acres in woods. Crown property bounds the lake, long a favorite fishing and camping area for Nanaimo folk.

Council went on record as supporting a campaign to save Rathrevor Beach near Parksville. The famous beach resort of 276 acres has 7,000 feet of sandy beach frontage which, said Mayor Westwood "may be sold privately and lost to this province forever."

He said, "I feel that we should let them know in Victoria that we also are very concerned with the fate of this beautiful property." He reminded council that Port Alberni council had recently sparked a campaign to save Rathrevor. Ald. John Cook described the beauty spot as a holidaymakers' paradise, where last Sunday he had noted more than 140 separate campers enjoying one of the few remaining good beaches on Vancouver Island.

Mayor Westwood said "it just so happens that I have a resolution with me that may be suitable to submit to Victoria." He then read out a resolution urging the provincial government to buy the beach property before the people of this province are deprived of its use through private sale.

The resolution was endorsed by council and will be forwarded to Victoria.

$50,000 Grant For Nanaimo's Housing Plan

Grants totalling nearly $148,000 were authorized by the provincial cabinet Monday to assist in the construction of four housing projects for elderly citizens.

A grant of $50,000 was made to the Nanaimo Senior Citizens' Housing Development Society. The Soroptimist International of Vancouver gets $33,333; the Grand Lodge of the IOOF of B.C. $30,000; and the Trail and District Senior Citizens and District Senior Citizens' Villa Society $34,530.

DUNCAN (CP)—A meeting scheduled Monday night to nominate a Progressive Conservative candidate for the district was called off because of poor attendance.

Only eight persons, mostly officials, came to the meeting.

School Site Unsuitable; Danger From Water Level

DUNCAN—A site on Chesterfield Street has been found unsuitable for a new six-room elementary school, according to Cowichan District 65 school board.

The board will seek the right to build on Indian land near Trunk Road and the Trans-Canada Highway, and will ask the education department to investigate the selection of the unsuitable site.

An independent firm reported to the board that the water table at the Chesterfield Street site was only "inches below ground level" during flood conditions, and that

3 Children Safe As House Burned

SOOKE—Mr. and Mrs. Jack Planes and their three children lost nearly all their possessions Monday when a fire of unknown origin destroyed their Saseenos home and contents.

Insurance of $4,000 was carried on the home by the owner, Mrs. Signe Stevens, 3017 Glen Lake Road, but there was no insurance on the contents, that included a new refrigerator and furniture.

Mr. Planes, who was at work up-island, hurried home Monday night when he heard of the accident. He had just resumed work recently after a year in hospital.

The fire was noticed by Mrs. Planes, who took the children, all under five years and including a baby of three weeks, to safety. They are being cared for by relatives.

Sooke volunteer firemen and B.C. Forest Service crews responded to an alarm given by Mrs. Planes, but found flames beyond control when they arrived at the scene. They stayed at the scene for three hours to prevent the fire from reaching a second house 15 feet away.

GIRL DROWNS; NANAIMO MAN SAVES HER MOTHER

Richter Merville of Nanaimo was reported responsible for saving the life last Wednesday of Mrs. Frank Stich after she had entered Tugliut Lake near Oliver in a vain attempt to prevent her daughter, Carol, from drowning.

The man ran into the water and brought mother and daughter out. Fire Chief Chester Hutton of Oliver applied artificial respiration to the girl, but she could not be revived.

BETWEEN TIMES By MONTE ROBERTS

Ever wonder how a reporter is chosen for the choice assignment of covering a Juan de Fuca swim attempt? This transcript of an interview between an editor and a prospective swim reporter will show you how it is done.

EDITOR: I understand you wish to be assigned to the next attempt on Juan de Fuca Strait. Why?

REPORTER: I regard it as a challenge. I am only doing it for the challenge.

ED: Good. I take it, then, you are not interested in overtime?

REP: Unfortunately, the Guild of which I am a member requires me to file for overtime, but I assure you, sir, I am not in it for the money. It's the challenge.

ED: Well spoken. Now, how do you refer to Juan de Fuca Strait?

REP: That 18.3-mile stretch of treacherous water.

ED: Beset by...?

REP: Unpredictable tides.

ED: And...?

REP: Bone-chilling temperatures.

ED: I think you have possibilities. Now, once aboard the accompanying boat, how do you feel?

REP: At this stage of the swim, I feel very optimistic.

ED: What are conditions like?

REP: Conditions are near perfect.

ED: What does the swimmer hope for?

REP: As the swimmer plunges bravely into the icy water and strikes out for the distant shore, he hopes to catch a favorable tide.

ED: What progress does the swimmer make?

REP: The swimmer, fighting courageously against wind and tide, makes good progress although he is minutes short of catching a favorable tide.

ED: As you move away from Victoria, what do you see?

REP: As I look over the back end—excuse me, the stern—of the escort vessel, I see the world's tallest totem, towering toward the sky, gradually receding into the distance.

ED: What is the swimmer doing?

REP: He is stroking a steady 33 1/2 beat crawl.

ED: Do you get close enough to the swimmer to ask him how he feels?

REP: Of course. I shout "How do you feel," and he shouts back "I feel like a million."

ED: Then what happens?

REP: The wicked-tempered Strait catches him in a back eddy. The swimmer is going nowhere, absolutely nowhere.

ED: Then...?

REP: The swimmer's trainer, from the accompanying dinghy, pleads with him to come out.

ED: And the swimmer says...?

REP: "I'll beat the Strait if I have to stay here all week."

ED: After which...?

REP: The unpredictable tides and unpredictable winds of unpredictable Juan de Fuca Strait break the heart of another courageous swimmer.

ED: One more question. How do you start your story?

REP: Heartbreak Strait claimed another victim today when...

ED: Excellent. The job is yours.

REP: Where do you keep the overtime slips?

Pash was involved in a collision with a naval transport car at Admirals and Colville.

Jerome McDonald, 620 Battery, switched his plea to guilty in city police court today and was fined $35 for careless driving.

McDonald was summoned after a motorist complained to police that he narrowly missed a collision with McDonald's truck as it approached him on the wrong side of Bay Street.

Counsel for McDonald said drinking was not involved and the accused was sick at the time.

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—If the eldest son of the reigning monarch is always Prince of Wales, why is Prince Charles, Duke of Cornwall, not called the Prince of Wales now?—I.G.L.

A.—If he survives he will eventually be Prince of Wales. The title Prince of Wales is borne after individual coronation and is not inherited at birth. King Edward VIII was installed Prince of Wales at Carnarvon Castle in 1911. The first English Prince of Wales was the son of Edward I and reigned as Edward II.

Q.—Did Eddie Foy, comedian well known throughout North America about half a century ago ever play in Victoria?—D.A.

A.—Yes, the files of the Daily Times record he was with a company presenting "The Strange Adventures of Miss Brown." That was on June 10, 1896. It was before he toured with "The Little Foy's," his own sons, five in number, according to the memory of old-time theatre-goers.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

GIRDING FOR SPRAY FRAY

Most formidable swim team to pit itself against Juan de Fuca Strait is shown picking Ol' Man Fuca's brains

Expert To Start Study of Swim

Master of Tug, Veteran of Strait, To Go With Marilyn on Daily Test

By DENNY BOYD

Capt. Ellice Cavin, skipper of the 96-foot Island Champion, will step down a few notches this week and become a passenger in a 14-foot runabout.

Capt. Cavin of Island Tug & Barge Co. Ltd. will accompany Marilyn Bell on her daily training swims, to gather information that he will use when he plots the course for her swim attempt on the Strait of Juan de Fuca. The Island Champion will lead the swim flotilla when Miss Bell makes her attempt on the strait.

Capt. Cavin, who has a 50-year accumulation of Juan de Fuca salt in his blood, was chosen navigator of the Bell swim by Harold B. Elworthy, head of the 26-ship Island Tug & Barge Co. Public-spirited Mr. Elworthy has promised to throw the full resources of his company behind Miss Bell, just as he did with Florence Chadwick two years ago in her unsuccessful bid.

HIS BACKYARD

Capt. Cavin knows the strait intimately because for 50 years it has been his backyard. Known as "The Old Fox" to his fellow workers, Capt. Cavin, son of a tugboat captain, has sailed the Strait since he was a boy of 16. He drew his skipper's papers in 1910 and is a model after whom many seafaring men have patterned themselves.

In the Second World War Capt. Cavin served with the U.S. Army Transport Service, commanding a tug carrying supplies from Prince Rupert to Skagway, Alaska.

Mr. Elworthy told Miss Bell and her coach, Gus Ryder, "Put your confidence in Capt. Cavin. He knows the Strait better than anybody."

In the first meeting between the Bell party and Capt. Cavin, the skipper went over charts and tide tables, outlining hazards and dangers and telling how he observed the tides while making log tows.

Miss Bell asked, "How would I compare with a log, captain?" "Well," said Capt. Cavin, "You're not quite the same build. That's something we'll have to figure out."

He said the magistrate was also opposed to altering the present usual parking fines.

At present there is a $1 fine for overparking at a meter and a $2.50 fine for overparking in a limited zone where there are no meters.

This has the effect, the Commissioner said, of penalizing the person who parks on the outskirts of the downtown area to a greater extent than the man who overparks in the city centre, where traffic suffers more from the act.

It was suggested the matter might again be taken up by City Council.

morning decided to recommend the step. Mandatory inspection of all cars using city streets would be a deterrent to accidents and an asset to the city, according to Commissioner William Hamilton.

The resolution stemmed from a letter received by the commission from Vancouver superintendent of police, H. S. Gray.

He said the testing station in Vancouver is in a building owned by the province but rented to the city.

It comes directly under council jurisdiction and is self-supporting from fees charged motorists who are required to pass the test twice each year.

If the car does not pass the test for brakes, lights, and other mechanical parts, it must either be repaired or ruled off the road.

The Vancouver official said less than one per cent of accidents there are now due to defective vehicles. He said a recent poll showed 90 per cent of the citizens approved the scheme.

Mayor Percy Scourrah did not vote on the resolution as he was temporarily absent from the meeting. On his return, however, he heard a resume of the discussion and registered no opposition.

The matter will come before council at its next regular meeting or at a special meeting which may be called in mid-August.

MRS. HILAND AGAIN FOILED BY HIGH WIND

Foul weather in Juan de Fuca Strait this morning stopped Mrs. Amy Hiland from making her second try at swimming from Port Angeles to Victoria.

Her attempt was postponed to Wednesday about 7 a.m. from Ediz Hook, failing which tides will hold up a marathon until around Aug. 15.

Mrs. Hiland came to within a mile and a half of Victoria in her initial try at the distance earlier this month.

Parking Fine Collections Meet Setback

Victoria Police Commission was told this morning the collection of parking fines at drug stores or other downtown centres in the evening is not approved by Police Court magistrate H. C. Hall.

"Without his approval it cannot be done," said Commissioner William Hamilton who had been investigating the possibility of the arrangement.

He said the magistrate was also opposed to altering the present usual parking fines.

At present there is a $1 fine for overparking at a meter and a $2.50 fine for overparking in a limited zone where there are no meters.

This has the effect, the Commissioner said, of penalizing the person who parks on the outskirts of the downtown area to a greater extent than the man who overparks in the city centre, where traffic suffers more from the act.

New Poll Started On Shop Week

Retail Merchants' Group Checking All City Stores

A new city-wide survey of merchants got under way today aimed at determining what store hours the majority of local store-owners would support.

The poll will be undertaken by five agents of the nationwide Retail Merchants Association of Canada.

EATON STORE MARKS DEATH

All operations of the T. Eaton Co. Ltd. here halted at 11 a.m. today as employees observed a two-minute silence for their former president, Robert Young Eaton, who died Saturday.

The two-minute silence was observed by all Eaton stores and order offices throughout Canada.

Narrow Escape For Repairman As Drum Bursts

Bomb-like explosion of a 45-gallon oil drum shattered six windows at Esquimalt General Repairs, Grenville Avenue, at 9.45 a.m. today. Shop owner Ted Maitland narrowly escaped injury in the blast, which was heard for blocks around.

Maitland said he was cutting the drum with an acetylene torch when the explosion occurred. The top blew off and ricocheted across the shop.

"It went off like a bomb," Mr. Maitland said. "I've never heard anything like it."

It is believed the empty drum had been cleaned with gasoline instead of steam as usual, causing the blast when the torch burned through.

All windows in the shop were smashed, including a large plate glass window at the front.

No RCMP Training Manual Available For Local Police

The RCMP will not permit use of their training manual by municipal forces, Victoria Police Chief John Blackstock told a police commission meeting today.

"It can't be done, I tried to get one personally," he stated.

The commission had asked that RCMP manuals be made available for a proposed police training school locally. A letter received from B.C. Attorney-General Robert Bonner instead suggested that all longer shopping hours through store opening on Wednesdays Vancouver police school for training.

But Mr. Markham explained the May survey was inconclusive. "There was a certain amount of apathy," he said.

The brief for six-day shopping which city council endorsed was supported by 80 merchants and various trade and civic organizations. It was aimed at increasing the tourist industry revenue by providing longer shopping hours through store opening on Wednesdays all day. It did not deal with food stores.

Water safety signs erected by the Red Cross are at danger points throughout the province. Other organizations, local and national, have put up warning signs on the basis of their knowledge and experience.

These signs are to prevent water accidents. But they are worthless unless YOU heed them.

The Toronto Livesavers do a wonderful job. When they tell you not to do something, be assured they have good reason for it.

The lifeguard uniform is a sign to you that the area is supervised, and protected for people with ordinary common-sense. Don't make it tougher for the lifeguard by being a prankster—one of those fellows who show off by holding his friend underneath the water or standing on his head on the bottom, or playing tag or throwing bottles that might cause a severe gash to home bather.

The lifeguards like to see you swimming on top of the water. They can keep tab on you then.

Signs make sense. "Don't Dive From the High Tower Unless You Are an Expert Diver." Only an expert knows the timing, the proper entry into the water, how to land, etc. That applies to all high boards. The sign will tell you to use the low board. Do that. When you go off the low board, let the board do the work. No need to throw yourself away out in the water or dive down to hit bottom. Make your dive shallow.

A sign on a bridge or railroad will say: "Don't Dive Off Here. Dangerous." A train might be coming or a boat passing, or you might hit a submerged log.

COOL OFF SENSIBLY

"Cool Off Before Swimming," another sign might read. Perhaps you have played tennis or some other vigorous game, and are in a lather of perspiration. A cooling dip looks great—but wait till you're dry before getting wet.

A sign at a beach says: "Don't Call for Help if You Are Not in Trouble." Who would want to do that, you ask. It would be like calling for a doctor when nobody's sick, or phoning for the fire trucks when there's no fire. But some bathers do call for help as a joke. When they yell in earnest, nobody pays any attention—and another drowning is chalked up.

To sum up: Don't be sorry—be safe. Don't take chances—take precautions.

For a Happy Suntan Time
Spray Lotion From a Bomb

By PENNY SAVER

If you're already on holidays, the sun-tan supply may be running low, and if you're about to go on holidays, you'll need some to make the tanning days successful. A new type of sun tan lotion comes in an aerosol bomb, like nearly every other liquid that's on the market. Squeeze the top down and out comes a misting spray of the lotion, ready to be spread around. The bomb costs $2.

Here's a family-sized teapot that is different. This one's electric! It works just like an electric kettle, with a side plug. The pot itself is a sturdy brown crockery painted with flowers. The elements are right inside the pot. If you don't mind breaking away from the traditional way of making tea, you'll enjoy using this teapot, and will find it quick and handy. If you should break the pot, you simply send the elements to the manufacturer, who replaces the pot, intact with elements, for $1.50. It costs $4.95.

A child-size lawn mower, rake and shovel will keep the youngsters happy in the garden (preferably a small plot of their own rather than the petunia patch). Three tin blades turn as the mower moves along on its tin wheels. It's just the right size and speed for the energetic children. The mower, rake and shovel cost $1.49.

Visitors in Victoria, and Victorians who wish to send a memento of Victoria to someone else, will be interested in the china serving dishes that are on sale at a special price. White dishes with a black and white patterned centre depicting the Empress Hotel are 95 cents. They were $1.50.

A covered butter dish is $2.50, and has the same picture on a smaller scale.

Other serving dishes showing the "Crest of London" are $2.50 each and would make very lovely gifts.

BASIC MOUSSE

For 4 to 6 servings of a perfect hot weather item try the following recipe suggested by the Poultry Products Institute for a basic mousse mixture for use with turkey, chopped hard-cooked egg or chicken:

One package unflavored gelatine, ¼ cup water, ¼ cup whipping cream, ¼ cup mayonnaise, 1 table spoon minced chives or ½ table spoon grated onion, 3 table spoons diced celery, 3 table spoons diced sweet green pickle, 1½ cup coarsely chopped turkey, salt and pepper to taste.

Soak gelatine in water five minutes. Dissolve over hot water. Whip cream until stiff. Mix gelatine and mayonnaise thoroughly, add whipped cream, chives, celery, pickle and turkey. Adjust seasoning to taste. Spoon into six individual molds which have been oiled or rinsed in cold water. Chill until firm. Unmold and serve on salad greens with additional mayonnaise if desired.

Note: Sliced olives or green or red pepper may be added in place of part of the celery and pickle.

Step-Parent Role Not Easy;
Try to Understand Problem

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, Ph.D.

The role of step-parent is never an easy one, especially when the real parent is still alive. This is what I pointed out to the woman who wrote:

Hurlock

(Q)—"I have a daughter, five years old, by my first husband. I am now remarried but my former husband sees our daughter whenever he wishes and they are devoted to each other. She lives with me and my new husband seems to resent her and is very critical of her. This leads to many arguments between him and me and I am afraid it will ruin our marriage unless he changes his attitude toward her. What can I do to make him change his attitude?"—R. S.

(A)—Have you stopped to consider the possibility that you, too, should change your attitude toward this problem if you want to save your marriage? You may be as much to blame, both directly and indirectly, for the arguments about the child as your new husband is.

Indirectly, your role should be to help your child show the same fondness for her stepfather that she shows for her real father. After all, she is living with her stepfather and owes him loyalty and affection, just as she does her real father. Encourage her to make a fuss over her stepfather. Few men can resist childish affection when it is true and sincere.

Directly, you can do much to improve the situation that has arisen in your home by putting your husband's interests first when he is at home. Arrange the child's schedule so that you will not be tied up with her when your husband is at home and wants to talk to you.

Arrange to have a babysitter or one of your friends take charge of the child when your husband wants to go out. You can hardly blame your husband for resenting the role of babysitter for another man's child. Arrange matters so you can be free to do things with him when he wants to do them.

Above all, keep an open mind about his criticisms of your daughter. Because you are her mother, you may be somewhat blind to her faults. Try to see them through your husband's eyes and be willing to follow his suggestions about correcting them.

Send your problems to Elizabeth Hurlock, in care of this newspaper.

A CLASSIC

PARIS (AP)—The little black dress is back in its glory this year. Balmain does dozens of them, beautifully draped and generously décolleté, with high, tight corset waists.

On the other side of the picture are sumptuous cut velvet, gold lame and sequined lace ball gowns haloed with swaths of pastel tulle around bare shoulders. One has big mink bows tied all down the front.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Heavy sheets of plastic are handy to pack between layers of clothes in a suitcase. If this is done, each layer can be lifted out separately to get to an article on the bottom, rather than having the suitcase disrupted in a scramble.

When notches are cut in fabric, they should be cut outward or away from the pattern edge, rather than inwards as the pattern indicates. This is in case the seam has to be let out later.

Plastic bags are handy for packing spillable articles on a trip and for bringing home wet wash clothes and bathing suits.

While cleaning house throughout the year, a woman should try to do one hard job a day instead of devoting a whole day a week to the heavy cleaning. This is overtaxing.

Salad for Tomorrow

Tomatoes with either chicory (curly endive) or watercress make an attractive side salad that will be good with roast or chops on Wednesday. Put a few leaves of the green of your choice on each side plate and add slices or wedges of tomato. When watercress is the green used, salt and a sprinkling of lemon or lime juice are sufficient dressing for the salad. With chicory, is recommended plain French dressing and garlic bread served as an accompaniment.

Don't Let Gardening Ruin
Hands; Use Special Gloves

Summer gardening may do awful things to hands and fingernails. This young woman chooses to protect her hands with neoprene cotton-lined gloves. They also work for dishwashing.

The gardening season delights one brand has roughened fingers for a good grip.

The life of women who find their souls soothed by putting, planting and pruning in the earth. Many women will work four times as hard as they usually do, when gardening, and come away more refreshed than they do from a day of lazing.

Seeing things grow and bloom, having flowers and plants around and inside the home and having home-grown vegetables for the table are pleasures to be sought in the garden.

What happens to hands is something else. Most ardent gardeners don't mind expending a fingernail for a rose bush, but it is possible to protect hands and nails if one is willing to wear gloves while gardening.

Neoprene gloves with a cotton lining may be the answer for many women who object to darkened knuckles and ruined nails after a day of gardening.

They are resilient, durable and resistant to the bad effects of chemicals, oils, sunlight and oxidation.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

I think you will be interested in the following letter from a reader.

"Dear Mrs. Lowman: I am one of the many women who joined your 8-Week Self-Improvement Marathon last January. I am 45 years old and a year and a half ago I was suddenly faced with the necessity of making my own living. I won't go into details.

"Before my marriage I was personal secretary to an important business executive. Fortunately I had enough money to take some courses in order to recover my former skill in typing and shorthand. After finishing those refresher courses I started out optimistically to find a position.

"Of course I realized that my age was against me, things be-really did not feel daunted. I have excellent health and know that I am well-qualified. I had no luck!

"I haven't told you yet that I was 30 pounds overweight last January. That is when I decided to join Marathon. I lost 20 pounds in eight weeks and then lost the last 10 more slowly.

"I do not know whether or not it is a coincidence or whether the loss in poundage turned the trick, but I have just accepted a position of responsibility. I do not receive a large salary to start with but I know I can do the job well and that there is a real chance for advancement. What do you think about all of this?"

Also remember that everyone is conscious today of the health hazard of overweight. You not only looked younger but you probably were considered a better risk because you were not overweight.

Of course, the age limits in the classified advertisements are unintelligent and ridiculous. This is changing, but slowly. Any mature woman who seeks a position should certainly give herself the break of looking fit, of being the correct weight, of good grooming.

If any of you readers failed to join Marathon in January and would like to begin getting ready for fall styles, you may want the routine this reader used. If so send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the Marathon booklet. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Between Ourselves

By ELIZABETH FORBES

News from Ottawa that the principle of a government bill to provide equal pay for women in work controlled by federal labor laws received unanimous approval Monday in the Commons, will be hailed with enthusiasm by all women.

Individually and in club circles women have been working for this moment for years. They have seen five of the ten Canadian provinces adopt such a bill. Now, with federal approval, the principle of equal pay for equal work is well on its way to Canada-wide acceptance.

It is a time for rejoicing. In the same breath, it is a time for taking stock. A time for considering—as women—the possibilities and the responsibilities that go with the equality of work and wages.

In this connection I would like to quote Miss Margaret Hyndman, QC, newly elected president of the International Federation of Business and Professional Women, who said in a recent interview: "When equal pay for work of equal value does become a reality, women will have to meet stiffer competition in matters of efficiency and responsibility and they must be prepared."

She said something else: "When women do not start their business careers as underprivileged persons, it is more likely that both employer and employee will concentrate on the job to be done and think in terms of the job rather than of the sex of the person doing the job."

Success Is Measured by Ability

Another woman who has done brilliantly on the job is Miss Ruth Tomlinson, president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs of Great Britain and Northern Ireland. In the business world she is personnel director in the boot and shoe industry in Great Britain and she's a strong advocate of equal pay for work of equal value.

Miss Tomlinson says: "Women's success is now being measured by their ability to undertake a multiplicity of tasks and to perform them expertly. The world's needs are greater than ever, yet because of the wonders of modern science, the world has become so small that we must consider ourselves a part of it and equip ourselves for it."

Women everywhere are entering new fields. The demand for women workers in some jobs, especially in Canada, is so much greater than the supply that more and more emphasis must be placed on the education of the woman worker.

Now that we HAVE equal pay within our reach it would seem that our immediate responsibility as women is to be sure that we DO equal work.

Tea Hour Presentation Honors Bride-Elect

A corsage of pink carnations was presented to Miss Irene Bese when she was honored at the tea hour at the home of Mrs. C. A. Gibbard, Roslyn Road, and Miss Bese will marry Mrs. Gibbard's son, Mr. Kenneth Gibbard, Aug. 18. Tea was served from a table centred with pink antirrhinums and lighted with rose candles. Mrs. D. W. Stott was in charge of the dining room, Mrs. J. L. Le Huquet and Mrs. J. D. Oliver, Mrs. J. G. Wallace, Mrs. W. D. Oliver, Mrs. R. Penty and Mrs. D. Shortt.

AFFECTS 72,000 WOMEN

Federal Government Approves a Bill To Provide Equal Pay for Equal Work

OTTAWA (CP)—Seventy-two thousand women employed in labor fields under federal jurisdiction are affected by the government bill to provide equal pay for women in work controlled by federal labor laws which was unanimously approved in principle Monday in the Commons.

However, spokesmen for the Progressive Conservative, CCF and Social Credit parties reserved final decision on the bill itself until they have seen the legislation.

The opposition groups supported a resolution, introduced by Labor Minister Gregg, providing that in employment under federal control women would receive the same rates of pay as men for the same work. The resolution later was approved and a bill introduced and given first reading.

The bill would apply to women "who are employed upon or in connection with the operation of any work, undertaking or business that is within the legislative authority of the Parliament of Canada."

Mr. Gregg said it would affect some 72,000 women employed in labor fields under federal jurisdiction. It would apply to the federal civil service and to women employed in communications, railroads, crown companies, shipping and other types of interprovincial operations.

NOW A BARRISTER

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mrs. Winnifred Murphy, mother of two teen-aged daughters, became a full-fledged barrister Monday. She was admitted as a solicitor a year ago.

Under the bill it would be an unfair wage practice for any employer "to discriminate in the payment of wages between sexes by paying wages to a female employee at a rate less than the rate at which he pays wages to male employees for work of comparable character on jobs, the performance of which requires comparable skills."

An exception would be where wages are paid under a seniority or merit increase system which in itself does not discriminate on the basis of sex.

A difference in the rate of pay between a female and a male employee based on any factor other than sex would not constitute an infringement of the act.

The act would not apply to written contracts of employment or collective bargaining agreements negotiated before May 1, 1955.

Complaints under the act would be investigated by a labor department conciliation officer. If he was unable to effect a settlement, the case would be referred to a commission which would hear evidence from the parties involved.

EXPECTS CO-OPERATION Mr. Gregg said the principle of equal pay has already been recognized in the civil service. He felt sure industry would co-operate in the government's efforts to give the principle wider recognition. There were about 1,250,000 women in Canada's labor force.

Mrs. Ellen Fairclough (PC Hamilton West), who has been working for an equal pay statute for several years, said she hopes the bill will be foolproof.

NEW YORK (CP) — Margaret Aitken, Canadian columnist and member of Parliament, was honored with 15 others here Monday night as a "woman of achievement."

First presentation of the awards was made at the convention dinner of the American Federation of Sororities Clubs and the Sororist International Association.

The combined conventions have gathered 1,750 professional women representing 30,000 Sororist members in 27 countries. Meetings opened Sunday and will run for two weeks.

Miss Aitken, Toronto Telegram columnist and Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for York-Humber, was the only Canadian receiving the award.

Other award winners included Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, war correspondent Marguerite Higgins, British psychoanalyst Anna Freud and Mme. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit of India.

Primrose Lodge Installs Deputy

Mrs. E. Major was installed Worthy District Deputy at a recent meeting of Primrose Lodge No. 32 in the Orange Hall, with Mrs. E. Anderson presiding. Mrs. G. M. Baker, past district deputy, was presented with a gift jewel. Plans were made for a fall bazaar. Refreshments were served under convener'ship of Mrs. E. Pearson.

The groom, son of Mrs. S. I. Carlow, Sooke, and the late Mr. S. O. Carlow, had Ray Pimlott as best man, and David Walker, cousin of the bride, and Robert Essery as ushers.

The bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Walker, 1436 Gladstone avenue, held a reception at their home following the ceremony. White and pink wedding bells and pink streamers decorated the fireplace and room where the bridal couple received guests. Masses of gladioli, stocks and sweet peas completed the decorations. F. T. Bowles of Sooke proposed the toast to the bride.

For travelling, the bride wore a grey-blue tailored suit with pink hat and accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations and gypsophylla.

Following a honeymoon trip up-island, the newlyweds have made their home at R.R. 2, Grand road, Sooke.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 1, 1956

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)—Avoid fretting with co-workers over odds and ends. Save taking a definite stand until you have a better understanding of their standpoint. P.M. delight those you love by some expression of your devotion, out-of-the-ordinary.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)—Money and pleasures, financial security and having a good time seem to conflict. This can be sensibly worked out by sticking to proven pleasures and letting others realize you can follow a moderate course.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—Early morning restrictions soon turn into chance to better yourself by talking things out with companions, associates you need to travel short distance to see although phoning may also do very much. Come to a better understanding now.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21)—Be especially careful on the highway early. Later you find that discussing, thrashing out your financial situation with bankers, experts in practical fields gives you the suggestions that make out most sense to, and for, you.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)—Alert and logical-minded friend has answer to your problems. Listen to this admirer rather than spending more than you can afford on testing appliances, gadgets, new articles to get the answer. Then you save and do things right.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—This is not your day to force any issues whatever. Be sure you look at the other fellow's position and make sure that you avoid that temptation to criticize. Wait till you have constructive solution instead and give that pointer.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—Secret worry over not being able to get away or expand as far as you desire keeps you all stirred up. Realize there are moments when patience and sticking at your job are the real solution. Then you progress intelligently now.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—Listen to a good friend instead of getting involved in financial or emotional situations that render you inefficient, unproductive. Later one in authority sees your talents and will extend favor if you ask.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—Tension between one in authority and an official tries to make you party thereto. It isn't actually your affair so sidestep this unpleasant situation. Tonight is good for getting out of your little groove. Be open-minded.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—Working in the same old rut does nothing to add to your lustre. Seek new methods for making your home, office, garden, utilities, car, etc., more satisfactory and interesting. Look and see how you stand financially tonight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—Financial expert you look to is in a picky, petty, harassed mood. So, avoid showing that you have been spending on outside persons or pleasures to replace potential tongue lashing with smoother meeting. P.M. be with generous companion.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20)—Member of your family objects to some outside contact because they really do not understand worthwhile factors in the alliance. Make sure you do study ways to increase art, comfort, charm, efficiency in your daily chores.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN WEDNESDAY . . .

Wednesday's child is one of those nervous and restless youngsters who will require more rest and sleep than most from earliest days. It is best that he, or she, have a room which is on the quiet side of the house and have regular hours when rest is arranged. There is in this child a profound desire to accomplish worthwhile success to a greater extent than most. However, it's essential you see that whatever is once begun be carried through in each undertaking or the forces can be too scattered for prosperity or happiness.

Congressmen Shut Up Shop, Take to Stump

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Harold E. Stassen's effort to dump Vice-President Nixon from the Republican national ticket this year seems to have had a directly opposite effect. The Stassen-Nixon controversy kept the political pot bubbling as Congress shut up shop and its members headed home to get ready for the national conventions next month, and the campaign wars later. Meanwhile, the Democrats completed their roster of 1,372 delegate votes for their nominating meeting starting Aug. 13 in Chicago.

An Associated Press tabulation of ballot pledges and preferences expressed in polls showed Adlai Stevenson leading the Democratic Presidential hopefuls. But his 371 votes were well under the 686½ needed to nominate.

The Republicans also had their 1,323-vote delegate roll virtually complete. The last two Virginia delegates were being chosen Saturday in a district convention. The GOP delegates are solidly for President Eisenhower's renomination, although a few are nominally pledged to favorite sons.

Stassen sprang his political stunt last Monday. Republican leaders in and out of Congress have been coming out with statements supporting Nixon for renomination. Stassen has been getting everything from mild rebukes to outright suggestions that he leave the party.

Port Alberni Girl Tourists Had Big Time

PORT ALBERNI (CP) — Thirty-eight Port Alberni girls spent their first full day at home in two weeks Monday following a two-week bus trip that took them as far as the Mexican-U.S. border.

The girls distributed tourist brochures put out by the Port Alberni Chamber of Commerce and told the people the met of Vancouver Island's vacation possibilities.

Highlights of the tour included a visit to Disneyland, attendance at a cinema movie and a tour of Chinatown in San Francisco.

Death of Woman Preacher Recalls Great 'Love Story'

LONDON (Reuters) — Dr. Maude Royden, 75, London's first woman preacher, whose relationship with a married man was hailed as one of the world's great love stories, died at her home here Monday.

In a book she wrote three years after her husband's death, Dr. Royden described how she met Rev. George William Hudson Shaw in 1901.

They fell in love but were not married until October, 1944, because Shaw was married to an invalid.

The book, "A Threefold Cord," told of the woman preacher's life with Shaw and his invalid wife.

Billy Graham Retarded Thinking, Says Anglican

OXFORD, England (Reuters) — A leading Anglican layman accused Rev. Billy Graham of retarding the development of "thinking religion" by his two crusades to Britain and said the American evangelist preached a form of Christian doctrine "which has long been outgrown."

Sir Henry Self, in a presidential address to the Modern Churchmen's Union here, said, "those who are concerned for the future of enduring religion in this country must be seriously perturbed by the course of events."

Shipping Season Opens At Churchill

CHURCHILL, Man. (CP) — The 1956 shipping season was scheduled to get under way today at this northern Manitoba port, starting off what is expected to be a record movement of wheat.

The Workworth of the Daigle Line will open the port for the second year. Her arrival last week was on the same date, July 27.

Eighty stevedores from Prince Albert, Sask., are on hand to unload the more than 1,600 tons of cargo destined for points in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. The cargo includes window glass, structural steel, bicycles, confectionery, machinery, tile and telephone equipment.

The Workworth will be loaded with grain for her return voyage to the United Kingdom—first of an expected 16,000 bushels of wheat to be exported through the port this year. Fort-seven shiploads of wheat have been sold for shipment via Churchill.

Elevators at the port, 610 miles north of Winnipeg, already are filled to capacity. Last year, a record 13,500,000 bushels of wheat moved out of Churchill and 11,500,000 in 1954.

Condemned Men Still Refused Automatic Appeal

OTTAWA (CP) — The government Monday beat down an opposition move to grant convicted murderers the automatic right to appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada.

Justice Minister Garson rejected the proposal on the ground that the provinces, which administer the criminal law passed by Parliament, should be consulted in the matter.

The Liberal majority, supported by Raoul Poulin (Ind-Berwick) defeated by a vote of 67 to 32 the amendment by Davie Fulton (PC-Kamloops) during Commons study of a bill amending the Supreme Court Act and the Criminal Code.

Among other things the bill, which was approved in principle and given clause-by-clause study, would provide that applications for leave to appeal in capital cases shall be made to five judges of the Supreme Court instead of one as at present.

Mr. Fulton, who received the support of all three opposition parties, said his proposal met one of the recommendations of the Senate Commons committee on capital punishment which made its report a few weeks ago.

CITES COFFIN CASE

The lawyer-MP said that if his proposal had been in effect a year ago the whole "messy, unfortunate and deplorable situation" of the Wilbert Coffin case would not have arisen.

He was referring to the fact that a single judge refused to grant Coffin leave to appeal but that the Supreme Court was asked by order-in-council to hear the arguments in the case and prepare an opinion for the cabinet.

Leave to appeal must be sought where a murderer's conviction is upheld unanimously by a provincial appellate court.

The Supreme Court in a 5-2 opinion handed down last Jan. 2 said it would have upheld Coffin's conviction if it had heard his appeal. The cabinet did not interfere with Coffin's death sentence. The prosecutor was hanged Feb. 10 for the murder three years ago of an American hunter in Quebec's Gaspé peninsula bush.

CIVIL CASES

Another provision of the bill, which now requires only the formality of third reading before being sent to the Senate, would raise from $2,000 to $10,000 the minimum amount that must be involved in civil cases appealable to the Supreme Court as of right.

The provision increasing the minimum sum involved in civil cases that are granted automatic appeals was carried on a vote of 58 to 31, the Liberals outvoting the combined opposition parties.

Mr. Garson said the present limit of $2,000 is unrealistic because of the present value of the dollar. It had been set in 1875. Appeals in cases involving less than $10,000 could be made after leave was granted.

Mr. Fulton seized on the fact that civil cases involving $10,000 could be appealed as of right to support his argument that capital cases also should be appealable as of right.

A man's life, he said, is much more important than any amount of money.

Mr. Garson said it is simply a matter of courtesy to ask the provinces to express their views on the recommendations, many of which involve provincial co-operation, before federal enactment of changes in the criminal law.

Mr. Fulton replied that the minister had tried to "camouflage" the issue of approval or rejection of the principle involved.

Ray Thomas (SC-Wetaskiwin) said the increase in the minimum amount that must be involved in civil cases appealable as of right is "unfortunate, untimely and unnecessary."

A man's life had a low "price tag" when a convicted murderer could not appeal as of right, but a litigant in a suit involving $10,000 or more could.

Soviets Back Suez Seizure

Ike Orders Dulles To Crisis Parleys

LONDON (AP)—Russia upheld Egypt today in her seizure of the Suez Canal and implicitly warned the West against reprisals.

The statement came from Nikita S. Khrushchev, Communist party boss, as President Eisenhower was dispatching State Secretary Dulles to London to help map Western strategy.

Khrushchev, in a speech at Moscow, said Egypt was entitled to take over the waterway. He warned against what he called "unwise voices in Britain and France asking for the application of reprisals, even of military operations." He expressed confidence their statesmen, with "common sense, experience and political sobriety," would view the seizure properly.

Diplomatic leaders of the United States, Britain and France—soon to be joined by Dulles—are working here on the idea of an international control body to guarantee continued free movement of ships through the canal.

Nasser Will Keep Pacts

In Cairo today, President Gamal Abdel Nasser declared freedom of navigation in the canal will be guaranteed.

"Both the Convention of 1888 which provides the canal would remain open to all nations, in war and in peace and assurances concerning it in the Anglo-Egyptian agreement of 1954 are and will be fully maintained," the Egyptian leader said.

In London talks to date the United States has been represented by Deputy Undersecretary of State Robert Murphy. British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau are the other conferees. Dulles will join them Wednesday.

Marilyn's Diary

Stella Folks!

Fortunately, I have been too busy to become seriously homesick. Training, sight-seeing and keeping up with all our gang takes care of that.

But forestalling any possible homesickness, I got something better than a letter from home Monday—a visit from our Toronto mayor and his wife.

Now don't get me wrong: Mayor and Mrs. Nathan Phillips didn't come all the way out here just to see us. They are taking a well-deserved holiday from their busy life and they kindly paid a visit with our six transplanted Torontonians.

We had planned to meet the mayor in front of our Old Charming Inn and he was to come with us on our training swim.

The mayor arrived a little late and when his taxi pulled up, the driveway was full of cars. The taxi had to park to one side of the driveway and energetic Mayor Phillips jumped out of the taxi to give us a big Toronto hello.

Unfortunately, there was a lawn sprinkler right in front of the taxi.

When the mayor jumped out, dressed in one of those sparkling white Panama suits, he walked right into the sprinkler and got drenched. His suit suddenly took on a polka dot pattern.

But he took it all in his stride, greeted us all with a million-dollar smile and it was "Hi, Marilyn! How's tricks, Gus?" In fact, a real friendly, down-to-earth greeting for each one of us.

The mayor and Mrs. Phillips accompanied us to the boathouse and, all the way over, he was discussing civic politics with a reporter while we kept silent. We outfitted Mr. and Mrs. Phillips in lifebelts—we Torontonians are proud of our mayor and we don't want anything to happen to him—and our practice swim seemed to go by in a matter of seconds, with the warm personalities of our visitors making my swim a pleasure.

Marilyn Bell

SEEKS RECORD

Shooting for Marilyn Bell's Lake Ontario record today is 21-year-old Shirley Campbell of Toronto, coached by Bert Crockett of Victoria. Under ideal weather conditions, she waded into the water at 10:55 p.m., PDT, Monday, and at 11:15 a.m. had covered about two-thirds of the 22-mile swim. If she can complete it by 7:50 p.m., she will have beaten the time set by Marilyn in her successful swim two years ago. Shirley is swimming for $5,000 from her sponsor, The Toronto Star, and a diamond ring.

WIRE BRIEFS

Kefauver Quits Race

CHICAGO (UP)—Senator Estes Kefauver's national headquarters announced today he is withdrawing from the presidential race and throwing his support to Adlai E. Stevenson.

12 Patients Perish

PUEBLO, Mo. (AP)—Fire swept through the Reagan nursing home late Monday night and claimed the lives of 12 of the 13 residents, most of them in or beside their beds.

Nine of those who perished were from 72 to 91 years old.

Death Car Found?

VANCOUVER (CP)—A late-model red car, its bumper stained with blood and threads caught in the grill, was found Monday night crashed into a telephone pole in the east end. Police believe it is the vehicle which hit and killed Mrs. Jane Edwards, 77, Sunday night.

BOGUS NAVY SURGEON

Demara Committed For Observation

BOSTON (AP)—Police said a man they identified as Ferdinand W. Demara, 34, of Lawrence, an impostor surgeon who once performed a series of successful operations on the Korean battlefield, was committed Monday to the Boston state hospital for 10 days observation.

Lieut. Francis J. Gannon said Demara was picked up in a hotel acting in a "confused manner." Demara told police he was awaiting several motion picture representatives who planned to film his life story.

After gaining considerable attention for performing successful major surgery on South Koreans, Demara was discharged from the Royal Canadian Navy in Esquimalt, and was held in custody by immigration authorities in Victoria pending his subsequent deportation from Canada.

Canadian authorities said Demara enlisted as Dr. Joseph Cyr of New Brunswick. The deception was revealed when the real Dr. Cyr reported his medical papers had disappeared.

COSTLY MISTAKE

Smugglers Load Beer Into Officer's Car

VANCOUVER (CP)—A suspicious RCMP officer arrested two smugglers with their contraband just south of here Monday, without even working up a sweat.

As much may not be said of the smugglers. The officer reported he spotted a suspicious car parked on a lonely road outside Huntingdon, B.C., a quarter of a mile from the United States border.

Ordering it to move on, the officer parked his cruiser, of similar make and model, in its place and went for a look around. He came back to find the two suspects, laden with 31 bottles of U.S. beer which they had carried nearly a mile through thick woods.

Ottawa Lottery Ceiling May Kill Giant Bingo

New Gambling Rules Before Commons

An end to giant bingo games, which have attracted 23,000 players in Victoria in recent months, appeared possible today as a joint Senate-Commons committee recommended a virtual prohibition of lotteries.

The committee, which has been studying the controversial lottery question for two years, defined bingo as a lottery and recommended a ceiling on bingo prizes of $5,000 in any one year by one organization.

The final report of the committee filed today, recommended laws against all lottery activity including prohibition of the distribution of foreign lottery tickets with three specific exceptions:

1. Lotteries licensed by authorities in aid of charitable, religious and community purposes with the value of prizes not to exceed $5,000 in any one year; no money to be paid to promoters and a proper audit to be made of operations.

2. Raffles of goods only for non-commercial purposes not to exceed $50 in total value.

3. Prizes permitted up to a total of $10,000 in one year in connection with the sale of admission tickets to agricultural fairs.

The committee recommended new laws from which all loopholes and ambiguities would be removed and the application of new and present laws against lotteries could be enforced.

The committee said that while foreign lotteries, including sweepstakes, are prohibited in Canada, "no specific prohibition existed against the importation of foreign lottery tickets."

It recommended that appropriate amendments be made to the customs laws to prohibit the importation of foreign lottery tickets and any advertising and other material connected with such lotteries.

State-Run Sweeps Ruled Out

The report also said there is no widespread support or demand for state-operated lotteries in Canada.

In opposing them, the committee said evidence does not support the contention that state lotteries in other countries provide substantial revenues and significantly relieve the burden of taxation.

"In countries holding state lotteries, the revenue derived from such lotteries is generally very small in comparison with total government expenditure. Only a few nations attempt to justify the existence of state lotteries on the ground of their relatively insignificant contribution either to the total national revenue or to specific purposes such as health, education or charity."

No useful purpose could be achieved through a state lottery in Canada. The proper role of the state was to control and regulate such gambling activity permitted by general law and not to provide gambling facilities to the public.

The Kinsmen Club here in the last three months has raised about $54,000 in three mammoth bingo games.

The prizes have included seven cars, the total value being far above the proposed $5,000 yearly prize ceiling.

Chairman of the Kinsmen bingo committee, Jack Philion, said today about $6,000 per game is profit. The remainder of the average $18,000 realized on each game goes in prizes and operational costs.

"Our projects are now being dealt with. We have many applications, but have arrived at nothing concrete yet," said Mr. Philion.

Bingo is illegal under present laws, but charitable committees by the Kinsmen of money realized from bingo "is the basis on which the Kinsmen were not prosecuted here," said a spokesman for the provincial attorney-general's department.

"It's a wonderful way to raise money," said Mr. Philion, who would make no other comment on possible curtailing of operations.

The victory gave England a 2-to-1 lead, with one match drawn, in the best-of-five series.

Laker took all 10 wickets for 53 runs in Australia's second innings, the first player to do so in test cricket.

He finished with 19 wickets for 90 runs.

Final scores: England 459, Australia 84 and 205.

England retained the Ashes on the basis that the worst she can do now is to end up with a tie if the Aussies win the fifth and final match. As the defending champion, the English side keeps the Ashes in the event of a deadlock. (Other cricket scores, Page 3.)

ALMIGHTY GOD, our heavenly Father, who hast created us to be Thine own, make us alert to Thy presence in every experience of this day. As we go about our work, press in upon us; meet us in our brother's need; purge our selfish wills. May we seek Thee even as Thou dost always seek us; in Jesus' name. Amen.

Red Chinese Withdrawal Demanded

Border Seizure Worries Burma

RANGOON, Burma (AP)—Several hundred Red Chinese troops were reported today to have invaded Burma's mountainous northern frontier. The Burmese government said tonight it was "seriously concerned" over developments in the area.

A statement from the Burmese foreign office said some of the Chinese troops had established outposts in Wa State in northeast Burma close to the border.

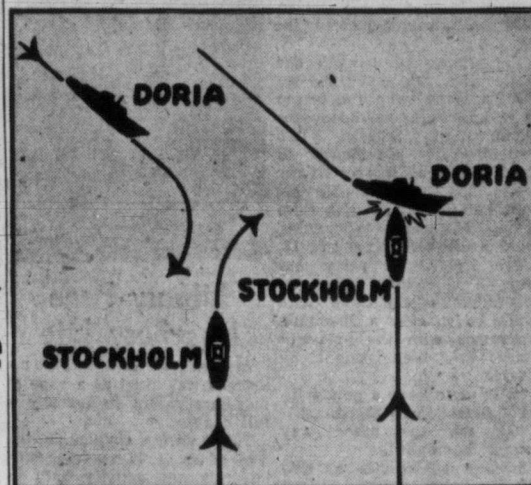

The reports received here said the Communist Chinese had crossed the frontier along a 500-mile arc and advanced up to 60 miles into Burmese territory.

"The Burmese government is in close touch with developments in the border region," the government statement said.

PEIPING CONTACTED

The statement said that the Burmese government had brought the matter to the attention of Peiping and negotiations are in progress with a view to withdrawal of these Chinese troops to the Chinese side of the border.

The statement was issued after a meeting of Prime Minister Ba Swe with cabinet leaders and chiefs of the armed forces.

NEW INFORMATION on actions of ships before collision that sank Italian luxury liner Andrea Doria is basis for reconstruction by Times' artist of sea tragedy off New York. At left is what could have happened had ships followed rule of the sea—"Green to green, red to red; perfect safety, go ahead." But, according to Italian Line spokesman, "Doria veered left and the Stockholm didn't pay any attention," as depicted at right.

SHIP TOLL FEARED 54

Missing 26 Were Near Impact Point

(AP and UP Dispatches) NEW YORK — The Italian Line said today 26 of the still "unaccounted for" persons aboard the sunken liner Andrea Doria were berthed near the point where the Swedish liner Stockholm smashed into the giant ship.

This disclosure led to fears that the death total for the crash might go to 54 persons.

Currently the Italian Line lists two known dead, 18 presumed dead and 29 unaccounted for.

The Swedish Line counts two dead and three missing and presumed dead.

The master of the luxurious Andrea Doria disclosed that he followed the progress of the approaching Stockholm on his radar screen before the collision last Wednesday.

In a subsequent statement, indicated that in futile attempts to avoid the collision the Andrea Doria may have veered across the fogbound path of the Stockholm.

"The Doria veered left and the Stockholm didn't pay any attention," Hugh A. Gigante, public relations official for the line, told the United Press.

Gigante said he could not confirm as a fact a report that the Andrea Doria, sounded two warning blasts on its whistle just before the collision.

Under international rules of the sea, a vessel turning left sounds two blasts. But rules first call for two vessels approaching toward each other to veer to the starboard (right).

(The U.S. Coast Guard said that an oncoming vessel, intending to turn to the left signals twice on its whistle and then awaits an answering double blast from the approaching ship. In an emergency, the vessel turning to the left continues to sound two whistle blasts as it turns.)

Survivors said the Europe-bound Stockholm was moving from a direction of six o'clock and the Andrea Doria was approaching from a direction of 10 o'clock. If both vessels veered to the starboard they would have passed port to port.

The bow of the Stockholm ripped into the starboard side of the Doria, indicating that the Italian vessel had cut directly across its path.

TINY VICTIM BURIED—Gigante said the Andrea Doria turned left in an apparent effort to "get away."

Funeral services for the youngest victim of the collision were to be held today.

A Mass of the Angels will be sung for Norma di Sandro, 4, of Milan, Italy, in Providence, R.I.

Norma, "the sleeping princess of the Andrea Doria," died Friday night in hospital. She had been unconscious for 40 hours.

The first of a flood of expected damage suits was filed Monday by Nancy Leo, 33, an Andrea Doria passenger, who suffered a broken leg and other injuries.

Miss Leo asked $200,000 for her injuries.

A U.S. House of Representatives merchant marine subcommittee, headed by Rep. Herbert C. Bonner (D-N.C.), comes to New York Wednesday to launch an investigation into the disaster.

Bonner said the committee would not try to determine who was to blame in the collision.

Killed by Masked Men—NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—Masked gunmen shot to death a young Greek Cypriot clerk at his desk in an office building just off Nicosia's "Murder Mile" today.

He was the eighth victim in the last week of killings which British authorities say are the work of the Greek Cypriot underground.

BETWEEN TIMES By MONTE ROBERTS

Ever wonder how a reporter is chosen for the choice assignment of covering a Juan de Fuca swim attempt? This transcript of an interview between an editor and a prospective swim reporter will show you how it is done.

EDITOR: I understand you wish to be assigned to the next attempt on Juan de Fuca Strait. Why?

REPORTER: I regard it as a challenge. I am only doing it for the challenge.

ED: Good. I take it, then, you are not interested in overtime?

REP: Unfortunately, the Guild of which I am a member requires me to file for overtime, but I assure you, sir, I am not in it for the money. It's the challenge.

ED: Well spoken. Now, how do you refer to Juan de Fuca Strait?

REP: That 18.3-mile stretch of treacherous water.

ED: Beseat by...?

REP: Unpredictable tides.

ED: And...?

REP: Bone-chilling temperatures.

ED: I think you have possibilities. Now, once aboard the accompanying boat, how do you feel?

REP: At this stage of the swim, I feel very optimistic.

ED: What are conditions like?

REP: Conditions are near perfect.

ED: What does the swimmer hope for?

REP: As the swimmer plunges bravely into the icy water and strikes out for the distant shore, he hopes to catch a favorable tide.

ED: What progress does the swimmer make?

REP: The swimmer, fighting courageously against wind and tide, makes good progress although he is minutes short of catching a favorable tide.

ED: As you move away from Victoria, what do you see?

REP: As I look over the back end—excuse me, the stern—of the escort vessel, I see the world's tallest totem, towering toward the sky, gradually receding into the distance.

ED: What is the swimmer doing?

REP: He is stroking a steady 33 1/2 beat crawl.

ED: Do you get close enough to the swimmer to ask him how he feels?

REP: Of course. I shout "How do you feel," and he shouts back "I feel like a million."

ED: Then what happens?

REP: The wicked-tempered Strait catches him in a back eddy. The swimmer is going nowhere, absolutely nowhere.

ED: Then...?

REP: The swimmer's trainer, from the accompanying dinghy, pleads with him to come out.

ED: And the swimmer says...?

REP: "I'll beat the Strait if I have to stay here all week."

ED: After which...?

REP: The unpredictable tides and unpredictable winds of unpredictable Juan de Fuca Strait break the heart of another courageous swimmer.

ED: One more question. How do you start your story?

REP: Heartbreak Strait claimed another victim today when...

ED: Excellent. The job is yours.

REP: Where do you keep the overtime slips?

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

Charles A. Pash, 237 Belmont, was fined $35 and restricted to business driving for one month when he was convicted in Esquimalt court Monday of careless driving.

Pash was involved in a collision with a naval transport car at Admirals and Colville.

Jerome McDonald, 620 Battery, switched his plea to guilty in city police court today and was fined $35 for careless driving.

McDonald was summoned after a motorist complained to police that he narrowly missed a collision with McDonald's truck as it approached him from the wrong side of Bay Street.

Counsel for McDonald said drinking was not involved and the accused was sick at the time.

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—If the eldest son of the reigning monarch is always Prince of Wales, why is Prince Charles, Duke of Cornwall, not called the Prince of Wales now?—I.G.L.

A.—If he survives he will eventually be Prince of Wales. The title Prince of Wales is borne after individual coronation and is not inherited at birth. King Edward VIII was installed Prince of Wales at Caernarvon Castle in 1911. The first English Prince of Wales was the son of Edward I and reigned as Edward II.

Q.—Did Eddie Foy, comedian well known throughout North America about half a century ago ever play in Victoria?—D.A.

A.—Yes, the files of the Daily Times record a presentation "The Strange Adventures of Miss Brown." That was on June 10, 1895. It was before he toured with "The Little Foy's," his own sons, five in number, according to the memory of old-time theatre-goers.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question to "Ask The Times" Editor, Questions and answers will be submitted daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

GIRDING FOR SPRAY FRAY

Most formidable swim team to pit itself against Juan de Fuca Strait is shown picking Ol' Man Fuca's brains

Expert To Start Study of Swim

Master of Tug, Veteran of Strait, To Go With Marilyn on Daily Test

By DENNY BOYD

Capt. Elice Cavin, skipper of the 96-foot Island Champion, will step down a few notches this week and become a passenger in a 14-foot runabout.

Capt. Cavin of Island Tug & Barge Co. Ltd. will accompany Marilyn Bell on her daily training swims, to gather information that he will use when he plots the course for her swim attempt on the Strait of Juan de Fuca. The Island Champion will lead the swim flotilla when Miss Bell makes her attempt on the strait.

Capt. Cavin, who has a 50-year accumulation of Juan de Fuca salt in his blood, was chosen navigator of the Bell swim by Harold B. Elworthy, head of the 26-ship Island Tug & Barge Co. Public-spirited Mr. Elworthy has promised to throw the full resources of his company behind Miss Bell, just as he did with Florence Chadwick two years ago in her unsuccessful bid.

HIS BACKYARD

Capt. Cavin knows the strait intimately because for 50 years it has been his backyard. Known as "The Old Fox" to his fellow workers, Capt. Cavin, son of a tugboat captain, has sailed the Strait since he was a boy of 16. He drew his skipper's papers in 1910 and is a model after whom many seafaring men have patterned themselves.

In the Second World War Capt. Cavin served with the U.S. Army Transport Service, commanding a tug carrying supplies from Prince Rupert to Skagway, Alaska.

Mr. Elworthy told Miss Bell and her coach, Gus Ryder, "Put your confidence in Capt. Cavin. He knows the Strait better than anybody."

In the first meeting between the Bell party and Capt. Cavin, the skipper went over charts and tide tables, outlining hazards and dangers and telling how he observed the tides while making log tows.

Miss Bell asked, "How would I compare with a log, captain?" "Well," said Capt. Cavin, "You're not quite the same build. That's something we'll have to figure out."

At present there is a $1 fine for overparking at a meter and a $250 fine for overparking in a limited zone where there are no meters.

This has the effect, the Commissioner said, of penalizing the person who parks on the outskirts of the downtown area to a greater extent than the man who overparks in the city centre, where traffic suffers more from the act.

It was suggested the matter might again be taken up by City Council.

The resolution stemmed from a letter received by the commission from Vancouver superintendent of police, H. S. Gray. He said the testing station in Vancouver is in a building owned by the province but rented to the city.

It comes directly under council jurisdiction and is self-supporting from fees charged motorists who are required to pass the test twice each year.

If the car does not pass the test for brakes, lights, and other mechanical parts, it must either be repaired or ruled off the road.

The Vancouver official said less than one per cent of accidents there are now due to defective vehicles. He said a recent poll showed 90 per cent of the citizens approved the scheme.

Mayor Percy Scurrell did not vote on the resolution as he was temporarily absent from the meeting. On his return, however, he heard a resume of the discussion and registered no opposition.

The matter will come before council at its next regular meeting or at a special meeting which may be called in mid-August.

MRS. HILAND AGAIN FOILED BY HIGH WIND

Foul weather in Juan de Fuca Strait this morning stopped Mrs. Amy Hiland from making her second try at swimming from Port Angeles to Victoria.

Her attempt was postponed to Wednesday about 7 a.m. from Ediz Hook, falling which tides will hold up a marathon until around Aug. 15.

Mrs. Hiland came to within a mile and a half of Victoria in her initial try at the distance earlier this month.

Instead, this July likely will go down in the record books as the second sunniest in the 42-year history of sunshine recording here.

"By sundown Monday we had 380.1 hours of bright sunshine, and the record is 394.7 hours, set in 1921," Mr. Mackie said. "We had cloud this morning, so instead of getting 14.6 hours we need to equal the old record, the best we can do by sundown today will be about 13 1/2 hours."

Forecast for tonight and Wednesday indicated continued clear weather with a few clouds in the morning and temperatures ranging between 50 and 68 degrees. Westerly winds will be brisk in the afternoon and evening, but will fall off overnight.

Clear weather continues to keep the fire hazard in B.C. forests ranging from moderate to high, according to the B.C. Forest Service.

FIVE NEW FIRES

Vancouver forest district, which includes Vancouver Island, has reported five new fires since Monday, with 11 burning, and 175 men employed on suppression.

A high hazard exists in Nelson, where one 500-acre fire alone has 160 men occupied, and 220 men are fighting the 11 fires burning.

Prince George area is comparatively quiet, with no new fires and eight men guarding 11.8 fires burning. Kamloops district has nine new fires, and 288 men at work on the 43 fires burning.

The pedestrian was walking in the crosswalk at Douglas and Fisgard during a heavy rain storm.

Magistrate Henry Hall said a probation report on Chan was "satisfactory."

NOT WILD

"There is no suggestion you are one of these wild drivers—rather the reverse," he told the accused.

Chan was driving slowly and stopped immediately after the accident, the magistrate said.

Magistrate Hall said the consequences of the accident were "unfortunate" and any penalty he might impose would not be commensurate with the circumstances.

Chan originally pleaded not guilty to the careless driving charge but later changed his plea. Defence counsel was Joseph McKenna.

Repairs were effected at Tofino.

Sunshine Mark For July Loses Out By 1 Hour

A new, all-time sunshine record for July in Victoria will be missed by about an hour, weatherman William Mackie said today.

Instead, this July likely will go down in the record books as the second sunniest in the 42-year history of sunshine recording here.

"By sundown Monday we had 380.1 hours of bright sunshine, and the record is 394.7 hours, set in 1921," Mr. Mackie said. "We had cloud this morning, so instead of getting 14.6 hours we need to equal the old record, the best we can do by sundown today will be about 13 1/2 hours."

New Poll Started On Shop Week

Retail Merchants' Group Checking All City Stores

A new city-wide survey of merchants got under way today aimed at determining what store hours the majority of local store-owners would support.

The poll will be undertaken by five agents of the nationwide Retail Merchants Association of Canada.

A cross-section survey conducted here by the same group in May showed a majority favored the present five and a half day shopping scheme.

MAJORITY IN DOUBT

Two executives of the CRMA, J. J. Markham of Vancouver and local representative A. W. Lukes were interviewed at city hall this morning.

They said "There has been some dissatisfaction with a recent brief supported by city council which called for a six-day shopping week. It is not felt to represent a majority view."

City council last week was advised by Provincial Secretary Wesley Black that the B.C. cabinet would not sanction six-day shopping by ordinance. Instead, the government will open the 25-year-old Shops Regulation and Weekly Holiday Act to amendment at the next legislative session.

"Nobody knows what hours the majority of merchants really want—several surveys have been taken but to our knowledge there has never been a complete survey," said Mr. Markham.

"We will call on every merchant. When the findings are complete we shall present them to city council. We are seeking an unbiased survey and do not suggest how a merchant should sign."

INCONCLUSIVE

The cross-section survey in May showed the following results:

In favor of the present by-law, 62 per cent.

Against six-day shopping, 68 per cent.

Against one-night shopping, 65 per cent.

But Mr. Markham explained the May survey was inconclusive. "There was a certain amount of apathy," he said.

The brief for six-day shopping which city council endorsed was supported by 80 merchants and various trade for a proposed police training and civic organizations. It was aimed at increasing the tourist industry revenue by providing longer shopping hours through store opening on Wednesdays all day. It did not deal with food stores.

No RCMP Training Manual Available For Local Police

The RCMP will not permit use of their training manual by municipal forces, Victoria Police Chief John Blackstock told a police commission meeting today.

"It can't be done, I tried to get one personally," he stated.

The commission had asked that for a proposed police training manual be made available for a proposed police training school locally. A letter received from B.C. Attorney-General Robert Bonner instead suggested that all Victoria rookies be sent to store opening on Wednesdays Vancouver police school for training.

SAFETY IN SWIMMING

By MARILYN BELL and GUS RYDER

You may recall a news picture of a sign warning bathers not to swim at a certain spot. Hanging on that sign was the clothing of a man who had not heeded it. He drowned.

Water safety signs erected by the Red Cross are at danger points throughout the province. Other organizations, local and national, have put up warning signs on the basis of their knowledge and experience.

These signs are to prevent water accidents. But they are worthless unless YOU heed them.

DO FINE JOB

The Toronto Lifesavers do a wonderful job. When they tell you not to do something, be assured they have good reason for it.

The lifeguard uniform is a sign to you that the area is supervised, and protected for people with ordinary common-sense. Don't make it tougher for the lifeguard by being a prankster—one of those fellows who shows off by holding his friend underneath the water or standing on his head on the bottom, or playing tag or throwing bottles that might cause a severe gash to some bather.

The lifeguards like to see you swimming on top of the water. They can keep tabs on you then.

Signs make sense. "Don't Dive From the High Tower Unless You Are an Expert Diver." Only an expert knows the timing, the proper entry into the water, how to land, etc. That applies to all high boards. The sign will tell you to use the low board. Do that. When you go off the low board, let the board do the work. No need to throw yourself away out in the water or dive down to hit bottom. Make your dive shallow.

A sign on a bridge or railroad will say: "Don't Dive Off Here. Dangerous." A train might be coming or a boat passing, or you might hit a submerged log.

COOL OFF SENSIBLY

"Cool Off Before Swimming," another sign might read. Perhaps you have played tennis or some other vigorous game, and are in a latter of perspiration. A cooling dip looks great—but wait till you're dry before getting wet.

A sign at a beach says: "Don't Call for Help if You Are Not in Trouble." Who would want to do that, you ask. It would be like calling for a doctor when nobody's sick, or phoning for the fire trucks when there's no fire. But some bathers do call for help as a joke. When they yell in earnest, nobody pays any attention—and another drowning is chalked up.

To sum up: Don't be sorry—be safe. Don't take chances—take precautions.

Water and wildness don't mix.

Soviets Back Suez Seizure

Ike Orders Dulles To Crisis Parleys

LONDON (Reuters)—The Foreign Office said tonight that "certain precautionary measures of a military nature" were being taken with the object of strengthening "our position in the Eastern Mediterranean area and our general ability to deal with any situation that may arise."

LONDON (AP)—Russia upheld Egypt today in her seizure of the Suez Canal and implicitly warned the West against reprisals.

The statement came from Nikita S. Khrushchev, Communist party boss, as President Eisenhower was dispatching State Secretary Dulles to London to help map Western strategy.

Khrushchev, in a speech at Moscow, said Egypt was entitled to take over the waterway. He warned against what he called "unwise voices in Britain and France asking for the application of reprisals, even of military operations." He expressed confidence that the Egyptian government, with "common sense, experience and political sobriety," would view the seizure properly.

Diplomatic leaders of the United States, Britain and France—soon to be joined by Dulles—are working here on the idea of an international control body to guarantee continued free movement of ships through the canal.

Marilyn's Diary

Marilyn's wife.

Now don't get me wrong: Mayor and Mrs. Nathan Phillips didn't come all the way out here just to see us. They are taking a well-deserved holiday from their busy life and they kindly paid a visit with our six transplanted Torontonians.

We had planned to meet the mayor in front of our Old Charming Inn and he was to come with us on our training swim.

The mayor arrived a little late and when his taxi pulled up, the driveway was full of cars. The taxi had to park to one side of the driveway and Mayor Phillips jumped out of the taxi to give us a big Toronto hello.

Unfortunately, there was a lawn sprinkler right in front of the taxi.

When the mayor jumped out, dressed in one of those sparkling white Panama suits, he walked right into the sprinkler and got soaked. He suddenly took on a polka dot pattern.

But he took it all in his stride, greeted us all with a million-dollar smile and it was "Hi, Marilyn! How's tricks, Gus?"

In fact, a real friendly, down-to-earth greeting for each one of us.

The mayor and Mrs. Phillips accompanied us to the bathroom and, all the way over, he was discussing civic politics with a reporter while we kept silent.

We outfitted Mr. and Mrs. Phillips in lifebelts—we Torontonians are proud of our mayor and we don't want anything to happen to him—and our practice swim seemed to go by in a matter of seconds, with the warm personalities of our visitors making my swim a pleasure.

Border Seizure Worries Burma

RANGOON, Burma (AP)—Several hundred Red Chinese troops were reported today to have invaded Burma's mountainous northern frontier. The Burmese government said tonight it was "seriously concerned" over developments in the area.

A statement from the Burmese government said that the Chinese troops had established outposts in Wa State in northeast Burma close to the border.

The reports received here said the Communist Chinese had crossed the frontier along a 500-mile arc and advanced up to 60 miles into Burmese territory.

"The Burmese government is in close touch with developments in the border region," the government statement said.

NEW INFORMATION on actions of ships before collision that sank Italian luxury liner Andrea Doria is basis for reconstruction by Times' artist of sea tragedy off New York. At left is what could have happened had ships followed rule of the sea—"Green to green, red to red; perfect safety, go ahead." But, according to Italian Line spokesman, "Doria veered left and the Stockholm didn't pay any attention," as depicted at right.

Missing 26 Were Near Impact Point

(AP and UP Dispatches)

NEW YORK — The Italian Line said today 26 of the still "unaccounted for" persons aboard the sunken liner Andrea Doria were berthed near the point where the Swedish liner Stockholm smashed into the giant ship.

This disclosure led to fears that the death toll for the crash might go to 54 persons.

Currently the Italian Line lists two known dead, 18 presumed dead and 29 unaccounted for.

The Swedish Line counts two dead and three missing and presumed dead.

The master of the luxurious Andrea Doria disclosed that he followed the progress of the approaching Stockholm on his radar screen before the collision last Wednesday.

An Italian Line spokesman, in a subsequent statement, indicated that in futile attempts to avoid the collision the Andrea Doria may have veered across its fogbound path of the Stockholm.

"The Doria veered left and

Survivors said the European-bound Stockholm was moving from a direction of six o'clock and the Andrea Doria was approaching from a direction of 10 o'clock. If both vessels

Bowler Sets Record By Taking 19 Wickets

MANCHESTER, Eng. (Reuters)—The first player to do so in test cricket.

—Jim Laker, Surrey's off-spin bowler, set a world record today by taking 19 wickets in the fourth test in which England defeated Australia by an innings and 70 runs and clinched the "Ashes"—the mythical symbol of world cricket supremacy.

The victory gave England a 2-1 lead, with one match drawn, in the best-of-five series.

Laker took all 10 wickets for 53 runs in Australia's second innings.

New Gambling Rules Before Commons

An end to giant bingo games, which have attracted 23,000 players in Victoria in recent months, appeared possible today as a joint Senate-Commons committee recommended a virtual prohibition of lotteries.

The committee, which has been studying the controversial lottery question for two years, defined bingo as a lottery and recommended a ceiling on bingo prizes of $5,000 in any one year by one organization.

The final report of the committee filed today, recommended laws against all lottery activity including prohibition of the distribution of foreign lottery tickets with three specific exemptions:

1. Lotteries licensed by authorities in aid of charitable, religious and community purposes with the value of prizes not to exceed $5,000 in any one year; no money to be paid to promoters and a proper audit to be made of operations.
  2. Raffles of goods only for non-commercial purposes not to exceed $50 in total value.
  3. Prizes permitted up to a total of $10,000 in one year in connection with the sale of admission tickets to agricultural fairs.
- The committee recommended new laws from which all loopholes and ambiguities would be removed and the application of new and present laws against lotteries could be enforced.

BINGO LOTTERY

It interpreted the game of bingo as being a lottery and its proposed restrictions would apply to bingo.

On bingo the report said: "The committee has already noted that at least one important judicial decision has held that bingo is a game of chance and falls under the gaming section of the Criminal Code."

"Other decisions have held that bingo is a lottery. The committee considers that in its essence bingo is more accurately described as a lottery in which prizes are distributed by means of chance rather than as a game in which players pit their skill and luck against each other."

"In addition, it appeared to the committee that in practice voluntary organizations regarded bingos and lotteries as alternative methods of raising funds for worthy purposes. The committee recommends that the law be clarified to ensure that bingo and similar games be subjected to the same prohibitions and controls as apply to lotteries."

The committee said that while foreign lotteries, including sweepstakes, are prohibited in Canada, "no specific prohibition existed against the importation of foreign lottery tickets."

It recommended that appropriate amendments be made to the customs laws to prohibit the importation of foreign lottery tickets.

SHIRLEY CAMPBELL

Shirley Within Eight Miles Of Lake Goal

TORONTO (BUP)—The Lake Ontario marathon swimming fever swept through this area late today as 21-year-old Shirley Campbell was reported eight miles from her cross-the-lake goal at 2 p.m. EDT.

If the attractive bathing suit model and stenographer from Fergus, Ont., reaches her goal in the 32-mile swim from Niagara-on-the-Lake, it will be the second time in one week that the lake has been conquered.

John Jaremy, 36, a Toronto steamfitter, did it last week, and excitement was again pounding through the city this afternoon as news of Shirley's progress reached newspaper readers and radio listeners.

She has been in the water almost 14 hours and was heading into predicted bad weather.

The weatherman said "the showers, which had been over Lake Ontario during some of the afternoon, will turn to thunderstorms with 15-mile-an-hour winds from the east. He predicted the thunderstorms would continue over the lake until early morning."

Shirley had been lucky with the water reasonably warm, and the temperature averaging 68 degrees in the lake and about 72 in the air.

Shirley showed signs of strain earlier in the swim. In pre-dawn darkness she complained of severe shoulder pains and was fed cortisone pills by an accompanying doctor. In mid-afternoon her brisk stroke slackened slightly and her rest pauses cropped up more frequently.

She had to reach Toronto before 7.50 p.m. (PDT) to beat Miss Bell's time of 20 hours, 56 minutes. Jaremy covered the now-traditional course in 21 hours, 13 minutes.

Condemned Men Still Refused Automatic Appeal

OTTAWA (CP) — The government Monday beat down an opposition move to grant convicted murderers the automatic right to appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada.

Justice Minister Garson rejected the proposal on the ground that the provinces, which administer the criminal law passed by Parliament, should be consulted in the matter.

The Liberal majority, supported by Raulo Poulin (Ind.-Beauséjour) defeated by a vote of 67 to 32 the amendment by David Fulton (PC-Kamloops) during Commons study of a bill amending the Supreme Court Act and the Criminal Code.

Among other things the bill, which was approved in principle and given clause-by-clause study, would provide that applications for leave to appeal in capital cases shall be made to five judges of the Supreme Court instead of one as at present.

Mr. Fulton, who received the support of all three opposition parties, said his proposal met one of the recommendations of the Senate - Commons committee on capital punishment which made its report a few weeks ago.

CITES COFFIN CASE

The lawyer-MP said that if his proposal had been in effect a year ago the whole "messy, unfortunate and deplorable situation" of the Wilbert Coffin case would not have arisen.

He was referring to the fact that a single judge refused to grant Coffin leave to appeal but that the Supreme Court was asked by order-in-council to hear the arguments in the case and prepare an opinion for the cabinet.

Leave to appeal must be sought where a murderer's conviction is upheld unanimously by a provincial appellate court.

The Supreme Court in a 5-2 opinion handed down last Jan. 2 said it would have upheld Coffin's conviction if it had heard his appeal. The cabinet did not interfere with Coffin's death sentence. The prosecutor was hanged Feb. 10 for the murder three years ago of an American hunter in Quebec's Gaspé peninsula bush.

CIVIL CASES

Another provision of the bill, which now requires only the formality of third reading before being sent to the Senate, would raise from $2,000 to $10,000 the minimum amount that must be involved in civil cases appealable to the Supreme Court as of right.

The provision increasing the minimum sum involved in civil cases that are granted automatic appeals was carried on a vote of 58 to 31, the Liberals putting the combined opposition parties.

Mr. Garson said the present limit of $2,000 is unrealistic because of the present value of the dollar. It had been set in 1875. Appeals in cases involving less than $10,000 could be made after leave was granted.

Mr. Fulton seized on the fact that civil cases involving $10,000 could be appealed as of right to support his argument that capital cases also should be appealable as of right.

A man's life, he said, is much more important than any amount of money.

Mr. Garson said it is simply a matter of courtesy to ask the provinces to express their views on the recommendations, many of which involve provincial co-operation, before federal enactment of changes in the criminal law.

Mr. Fulton replied that the minister had tried to "camouflage" the issue of approval or rejection of the principle involved.

Ray Thomas (SC-Wetaskiwin) said the increase in the minimum amount that must be involved in civil cases appealable as of right is "unfortunate, untimely and unnecessary."

A man's life had a low "price tag" when a convicted murderer could not appeal as of right, but a litigant in a suit involving $10,000 or more could.
